50 Miles, 10 Cents

These Dumping Russians

Cry-Baby Bandits

Welcome to Einstein

By Arthur Brisbane

SOME VERY IMPORTANT NEWS about a new engine comes from London. Operated by gas, generated from coke, this engine drove a truck weighing one ton, with 560 pounds of passengers, 50 miles at more than 20 miles an hour, for a total cost of 10 cents.

That is not pleasant news for railroads, already meeting competition from automobile trucks that can't run 50 miles for 10 cents.

Russians are now accused of sending us "gas generator" anthracite coal for one dollar a ton less than it costs to produce. That probably is guess work. We don't know what it costs Russia to produce coal.

It is extraordinary what men and industries can do under pressure. For instance, C. C. Gibson, president of the Mullins Manufacturing Co. of Salem, Ohio, gives these interesting facts:

His factory makes parts for automobiles.

A few years ago, it sold limousine doors of steel for nine dollars each. When a salesman took a contract for those doors at eight dollars, he was told it was absolutely impossible to meet that price.

The same factory sells a better door of the same kind now for one dollar and four cents, and makes a profit, although the making involves six operations.

Perhaps Russia has learned some things that we haven't learned.

Three young men, christened by reporters "The Cry-Baby Bandits," were to have died in New York's electric chair last night. Governor Roosevelt ordered 24 hours' delay. They murdered Charles Sauer, while robbing his drugstore, nearly a year ago.

In this country justice waits too long. In England, the three young men who committed a murder in February would have been hanged in March, or sooner.

Our electric chair gives young criminals a chance to "show off," display their "nerve" and it corrects nothing.

Life imprisonment at hard work, with absolute certainty that it would be LIFE imprisonment, plus the hard work, would discourage murder. Robbery that ends in murder is based on serious objection to working hard.

Prof. Einstein, arriving in America, got a noisy reception and didn't like it. His friends are mathematics, astronomy, abstract thought. They don't yell, or push.

Reporters found it difficult to question Einstein, knowing well that only six men in the world could understand his answers to important questions, and probably no newspaper man is included in the six.

The learned professor, supposed to supplant Newton, says the law of gravitation doesn't act everywhere. Also, straight lines do meet, and, "the infinite universe" is NOT infinite. It is all made of curves, and so comes back to the place whence it started. At least, that is how it sounds to ignorance, which asks Prof. Einstein:

"If the universe isn't infinite, what is located outside of its boundaries? And if, as you say, there was a point in past history when time actually began, how do you explain that?"

Prof. Einstein says: "I explain it perfectly, but you can't understand the explanation."

What can you reply to that?

A mouse can't understand a telephone, although it hears the bell ringing every day.

In any case, Einstein is a gigantic mathematical genius. No doubt about that, and he is most welcome.

From New York he goes to the Pacific Coast where an American, Prof. Millikan, discovered the cosmic ray, another puzzle.

The professor will learn that this country is quite a "continuum," the new word for the infinite ether.

If unemployment conditions are as bad as reported in many parts of the country, it is the duty of the country to feed if it can't employ those that lack food, be they many or few.

A job of this kind should be undertaken by the government, and the best agency for distribution of food and organization of relief would be the army and navy.

Such work done by the navy during the war, on occasions of accidental disaster, was done admirably.

The task is too big for any private benevolent agency, no matter how benevolent or well managed, whether it be the Salvation Army, Y. M. C. A., Red Cross or anything else.

The army and navy know how to buy food, clothing, blankets

BANKER STEALS $8,000,000 IN HOLLYWOOD

Million a Year Handed to Friends and Oil Well Promoters

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 12 (AP)—Charles A. Whitmore, loan commissioner, announced today that defalcations totaling several million dollars from the Guaranty Building & Loan Association are admitted in a written confession by Gilbert Beesemyer, 45, its secretary-manager.

Directors said Beesemyer's misappropriations might aggregate $8,000,000. They were said to have affected only the association.

Loan he was a 60 per cent stockholder, but also the North American Bond and Mortgage Company and the Guaranty Holding Corporation, both of Los Angeles.

The confessions, Whitmore said, was given to him and to directors of the association early today and Beesemyer was taken into custody.

Whitmore said the confession disclosed the most amazing and elaborate peculations of their kind in California. Beesemyer said the abstractions were made over a period of nine years.

HAS 20,000 DEPOSITORS.

The Building and Loan Association was capitalized at $11,000,000, but deposits exceeded that figure. It was allied with the Bank of Hollywood, a relatively new institution which failed to open its doors Monday.

Whitmore said his department would take charge of the Guaranty Building & Loan Association and liquidate the remaining assets for the benefit of the 20,000 depositors.

Examiner Milton O. Shaw, who was transferred here from San Francisco, discovered discrepancies in the association's books. His findings were presented last night to the board of directors of the association, after which Beesemyer arose, directors said, and stated he had caused the trouble.

ADMITS HE'S CROOKED.

"How much was the defalcation?" one director asked.

"More than you think; several millions," Beesemyer was quoted as saying, adding: "I am a dirty crook."

Beesemyer then launched into details of his operations. Whitmore said. He withdrew the amounts as overdrafts, loaning $40,000 to friends who approached him with hard luck stories and investing two years ago $2,000,000 in the promotion of an oil company, with the hope of realizing the amount is taken.

Beesemyer is a native of Hollywood and a leader in civic and social affairs. In 1908, he married Matilda W. Fisher. He is the father of one child, Elmer G. Beesemyer.

William Barry Wood, class of 1932, of Milton, will lead the Harvard varsity football team next fall.

Wood's election was predicted right after the Yale game when Barry shot to stardom by hurling two accurate passes to Art Hunsley for touchdowns and kicking one of the points to beat Yale, a top-heavy favorite, by a score of 13-0.

3000 SPANISH TROOPS REBEL

Madrid, Dec. 12 (AP)—Spain's political cauldron boiled over today when 3000 infantry and artillery men in revolt opened fire on the little town of Jaca, up near the French frontier.

It had been coming for weeks and the Berenguer government was not unprepared. Troop trains in all the garrison towns were waiting on the sidings, and soldiers piled in to converge upon Jaca and put down the rebellion.

The first thing the government did after getting reinforcements under way was to clamp a censorship on all radio and telegraph messages.

Military barracks throughout the north of Spain seethed with activity as soldiers came out "on the double" to board troop trains.

Jaca is about 20 miles from the French frontier, and has a population of 5000.

Nothing but official information came through to Madrid tonight concerning the revolt of the soldiers, and nothing at all was made public by government officials.

Maj. Ramon Franco, Spain's aeronautical aviator, who escaped from a military prison three weeks ago, is one of the leaders in the revolt.

Peace and Good Will

THE moving picture, "All Quiet on the Western Front," is as popular in Germany as it has been elsewhere.

It is regarded there and here as a vivid portrayal of the true conditions that prevail in war.

It is, of course, to that extent, propaganda against war, but not untruthful propaganda, not even prejudiced propaganda.

The supporters of Germany's ancient and abandoned war policy, however, are rioting against this film.

They declare that it promotes a supine peace, and will tend to make Germany submit to the humiliating and oppressive, and even destructive conditions of the Versailles compact.

The ancient war party is wrong.

Germany needs peace and not war.

Another war would destroy Germany.

Another decade of peace will restore Germany's power and prestige.

THE provisions of the Versailles treaty are outrageous, inhuman. They are calculated to create war.

But they were framed by the enemies of Germany in the hope that the war which they might precipitate would reduce Germany definitely and permanently to subjection.

Germany should not favor the policies of her enemies.

At this time, "discretion is the better part of valor."

Germany should not allow herself to be forced into war either by those without her boundaries who are hostile to her, or by those within her confines who mean well but think badly.

Ludendorf has said that if Germany were forced into war within the next few years, she would be defeated and all her allies with her. This is probably true.

France and her allies have the men, the money and the munitions.

For Germany to precipitate or to permit a war when France has so overwhelmingly the upper hand would be the height of folly, of which only the loud-talking, shallow-thinking war party in Germany would be capable.

PEACE will save Germany.

Peace will eventually correct the outrageous and oppressive conditions of the Versailles treaty.

Peace abates passions, promotes justice, and will make readjustment possible.

American influence will probably be exerted in favor of readjustment, because the Versailles treaty violated every principle for which America went into the war—every Armistice pledge which America made to the vanquished nations.

France will want her last pound of flesh, of course. France will be supremely selfish. That is her nature.

But the overwhelming sentiment of the world, the innate sense of justice of the human race, will compel some modification of the brutal injustice of the Versailles compact.

"Peace on earth and good will" AMONG men will mean salvation not only to Germany but to all nations.

Any agency which tends to promote peace should be approved and encouraged and protected by wise, conscientious and far-seeing government.

JEWISH GIRL GETS 2 DAYS OFF TO WED RICH HEIR

Bride Is Convert to Catholic Faith; Ceremony by Priest in North Chelmsford

A modern Cinderella, on a two-day leave of absence from her typewriter, slipped into Massachusetts today, became the bride of John J. Raskob, heir to multiple millions—and prepared to settle down with him in two rooms.

She was Miss Minerva Aaronson, 19, New Haven, Ct., stenographer—a Jewish girl who was married today in the Roman Catholic faith at North Chelmsford to the son of the chairman of the Democratic national committee.

The ceremony was performed at 9:30 a. m. in the rectory of St. John's Church in the presence of young Raskob's parents, the bride's mother and nine other relatives and friends.

LICENSE A SECRET

Relatives and some members of the bridal party left Boston for New York on the Yankee Clipper, but the Raskob Jr. private car did remain on Track 17 at the South station. It was understood it would be attached to the Federal express tonight and would carry the bridal couple and senior Raskob.

In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Raskob, Sr. and the bride's mother, there were in the bridal party, Miss Helen Aaronson, a sister of the bride; Miss Helena Raskob, sister of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Kopkind of New Haven, and Louis Nizer of Fort Wayne, Ind.

Although the marriage license was issued only a day ago, it was denied at first at the Chelmsford town clerk's office that any license had been issued in the city.

Later, when the marriage became known, an official of the town clerk's office said he "regretted that this error of information had been made."

BRIDE A JEWESS

Young Raskob, 23 years old, is a Roman Catholic, while his bride is a Jewess, the daughter of the late Abraham S. Aaronson, former prosecuting attorney and State representative of Connecticut.

The couple apparently made effort to keep the marriage ceremony from becoming public immediately, for, according to the town clerk of Chelmsford and the city clerk of Lowell, adjoining, no marriage license was taken out in either of those places.

The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. Joseph A. Curtin, pastor of St. John's, in the church rectory, in the presence of Raskob's parents, the bride's mother and nine other relatives and friends.

The bride is understood to have been taking instructions in the Catholic faith for some weeks before the engagement was announced last September.

According to Mrs. Albert W. Stophord, landlady of young Raskob

G. O. P. SENATE LEADERS JOIN IN REVOLT AGAINST HOOVER

REGULARS IN WARNING TO PRESIDENT

Watson, Fess, Reed and Other Supports Won't Defend Him; Curtis Cautions Him to Stop

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Correspondent

Washington, Dec. 12—A condition akin to outright revolt against President Hoover's party leadership prevailed among the Republicans in the Senate today as a result of the extraordinary events of the week.

Burning with resentment and openly critical, a dozen or more regular Republicans held a meeting at the Capitol last night and drew up what amounted to both a plea and an ultimatum to Mr. Hoover to "play ball" with his party leaders in Congress or suffer the consequences.

Mr. Hoover was informed that Republican senators were anxious to co-operate with him in carrying out his legislative programs, but that self-respecting reciprocal measure of co-operation was also due them from the White House.

WARNED TO LAY OFF

In particular, the President was told that the Republican leadership desired to be consulted before the issuance of any such statements such as that emanating from the White House on Tuesday, which accused members indiscriminately of "playing politics with human misery" and with seeking to "raid the Treasury."

The sense of the Republican conference was conveyed to Mr. Hoover by Senator James E. Watson, Indiana, Republican leader. While the conferees sat and listened to the one end of the conversation, Senator Watson picked up the telephone and informed Mr. Hoover of the feelings of his colleagues.

What Mr. Hoover said or left was not made known, but indications were that he did most of the listening while Watson did most of the talking.

The meeting was composed entirely of party regulars, who have been hurt and bitterly resentful over the week's amazing developments.

CURTIS CAUTIONS HOOVER

The Senate's feelings were further portrayed to Mr. Hoover this morning by Vice-President Curtis.

After conferring with a number of Republican senators who participated in last night's meeting, Curtis went to the White House in advance of the regular Friday cabinet meeting and had a talk with the President.

It is understood he informed Mr. Hoover that Republican senatorial sentiment was unanimous against defending him on the floor unless he agreed to cease attacking the Senate.

It was learned today that among those who participated in last night's Republican conference were Senators Fess, McNary, Vandenberg, Wallace F. Reed, Metcalf, Hatfield, Steiwer, Kean and others.

NO G. O. P. DEFENSE

For the past three days the President and his policies have been subjected to savage assault on the Senate floor and no Republican voice raised in his defense. This fact is said to have irked Mr. Hoover considerably.

What those extraordinary events portend with relation to Mr. Hoover's political future—particularly in 1932—remains to be seen. But the fact is undeniable that there exists on the part of Senate Republicans a revolt against the President, of unusual and significant proportions.

When the party warts on Watson, Senators Smoot, Utah; Reed, Pennsylvania; Fess, Ohio, chairman of the Republican national committee, and the younger group of senators called "the Hoover young men," all silent for three consecutive days while a Republican President is being assailed as no President has been since Woodrow Wilson—when that condition prevails it becomes a zone of extraordinary political significance.

EINSTEIN TALKS UPON JEWISH BENEVOLENCE

Presented Golden Book of Palestine Fund Raised in His Honor

New York, Dec. 12 (AP)—To delegations from six Jewish organizations of the United States Prof. Albert Einstein talked briefly today about the subject which, next to science, is closest to his heart—the benevolent works of his own people.

Aboard the liner Belgenland at its pier he was presented a special volume of the Golden Book of the Jewish National Fund, containing the names of all who have given money to the Palestine funds in Einstein's honor.

GRATEFUL FOR BOOK

He responded that he was glad to be among those whose thoughts were similar to his, and said he hoped to be able "to work for my people the rest of my life, as well as for science."

"I am grateful," he said in German, "to receive this book. I have long been devoted to the movement for freeing the soil of Palestine for the productive arts of the Jewish people."

Talking movies were made of the ceremony. Menachem Ussishkin, president of the World Zionist National Fund, presented the book. Robert Szold, Zionist administrative chairman, welcomed the professor on behalf of American Jewry and told him he combined "all the qualities which we consider typical of the noblest Jews of all generations."

AT LUNCHEON WITH OCHS

The Zionist Organization of America, the Jewish National Fund, the Jewish Agency, the Hadassah, the Junior Hadassah and the Avukah were represented in the welcomers.

After receiving the delegations, Einstein went ashore to attend a luncheon given in his honor by Adolph Ochs, publisher of the New York Times.

Awaiting him in the lobby of the Times Building annex were many office girls who cheered him.

FIRMS ASSURE EMPLOYES OF WORK

Upwards of 100,000 Men and Women on Payrolls of Six Companies

Leaders of some of New England's largest industries will make no reduction in the staffs of their companies or in the wages of their workmen, according to information compiled by the Boston Evening American.

William Phillips, New England regional member of President Hoover's Unemployment Commission, when apprised of these findings, said:

"This attitude is typical of the support being given the unemployment committee everywhere in New England."

Upwards of 100,000 men and women will be affected by the decision of six company representatives in interviews given to the Boston Evening American as part of a survey.

Typical companies representing a great variety of industry, who declare they will not cut wages are the following:

The United Fruit Co., employing 70,000.

John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co., employing 13,000.

Stone & Webster Service Corp., employing 10,000.

Stone & Webster Engineering Corp., employing 6000.

Stone & Blodgett, employing 500.

The Joseph P. Manning Co., employing 400.

GAIN NOTICEABLE

Meanwhile, Mr. Phillips, in a statement expressed gratification at a noticeable improvement in the unemployment situation in Boston and throughout the New England States. He said:

"Although the exact figures are not yet ready, I am of the opinion that the percentage of unemployed will be less for November than it was in October. New England manufacturers are showing a splendid spirit of cooperation. And, although they cannot pledge themselves too far, they are doing everything in their power to alleviate the present condition.

"The Massachusetts State committee feels that its work will bear fruit within a short time. However, the job is still with us and is not over by a long shot."

FRUIT CO. IN LINE

Sidney Dillon, general employment manager and in charge of the 70,000 employes of the United Fruit Co., speaking for Victor M. Cutter, president, declared:

"The United Fruit Co. has not and will not reduce its working personnel. Neither will it reduce salaries."

MAY INCREASE STAFF

The John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co., through A. L. Sherman, assistant secretary, declared:

"If anything, we will increase our working force after the first of the year. It would be impossible for us to make any reductions. Reductions in salaries never have been contemplated by this company."

The Stone & Webster Engineering Corp., according to Albert Northrup, of the public relations department, also may have to increase its personnel from time to time during the next few months, contingent on the receipt of several contracts. One of these contracts, it was learned, will be the means of providing many jobs for Bostonians.

WILL NOT CUT PAYROLL

Joseph P. Manning, head of the cigar company which bears his name, and also chairman of the Boston Retail Trade Board Relief Hospital, announced that he will not cut his payroll following the holidays.

"It would be possible for me to reduce the working force of my factories from 400 to 250 at per cent within the next two months. However, in view of the present conditions I will maintain the present staff. By my hospital contributions I have had the opportunity to study the unemployment situation from an angle other than the business one and realize it is up to the employer to do all he can to remedy conditions," Mr. Manning said.

Jewish Star Asks Divorce Even Though Never Wed

New York, Dec. 12—Flowers were omitted, and so was the ceremony, when Jennie Goldstein, foremost Yiddish theater and Max Gabel, her producer and co-star, decided to merge houses holds 16 years ago.

Jennie told Federal Judge in Supreme Court yesterday, where she is suing Max for divorce, that all the time from January 5 1914, they have been putting one over on their friends, who thought the wedding band had been slipped on Jennie's finger by benefit of clergy. Indeed, there was no ceremony at all.

Jennie Goldstein

The divorce is uncontested. Jennie told the court they lived happily until Max went to Europe last year, when they agreed in disagree. She heard he had a good time in Europe, but she was assured he was being consoled in his grief by Anna Hershkon, a Brooklyn chorus girl.

Einstein's Steward Calls Him Model Passenger

New York, Dec. 12 (AP)—No man, not even Prof. Einstein—is a mystery to his steward.

Police say John Delgado, of the liner Belgenland, who looked out for the German scientist's welfare on the voyage to America.

"Sure, I understand him," says Delgado, "he is just like me. He likes to be quiet. I always knew just what he wanted."

Delgado listed Dr. Einstein's deportment in this manner:

He liked his bath very hot.
He scorned a dress suit.
He hid his pencils and paper.
He looked at the stars all night.
He ate double portions of grapes.

Raskob's Son and Jewish Girl Wed in N. Chelmsford

kob at North Chelmsford, the new home which was recently built into the Catholic faith on November 23 by Fr. Curtin. The couple, she also has obtained a special dispensation to be married in the season of Advent.

MARRIED BY PASTOR

Last April Raskob's father who managed former Gov. Alfred E. Smith's presidential campaign, had an hour's audience with the Pope in Rome while touring Europe with members of his family.

Although the bride, at work in the New Haven brokerage office until yesterday, obtained a leave of absence until Monday, it is understood that the couple, following a wedding trip, will live in two rooms at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Stopherd, in Cottage row, North Chelmsford, where young Raskob has lived for three months.

LEAVE FOR BOSTON

Mr. and Mrs. Stopherd were among those present at the wedding, and before leaving for Boston, the new Mrs. Raskob changed from a blue to a red dress at the Stopherd home, also leaving there the bouquet she carried during the ceremony.

Young Raskob met his bride in New Haven through mutual interest in welfare work. Raskob, the bridegroom, was attending in welfare work in which his father was interested and called at the offices of New Haven brokers for which Miss Aaronson had gone to work a few months previously.

PARENTS DELIGHTED.

When the announcement was made, parents of young Raskob expressed themselves as pleased with his choice, and the mother of Miss Aaronson uttered a similar sentiment. Miss Aaronson herself said that her people were not orthodox.

It was report then that Raskob, Sr., had set aside a trust fund of $2,000,000 for his son and bride-to-be, giving them an annual income of $100,000, but Raskob, Sr., later laughed the report down, declaring that his son was in a lucrative position and preferred to support his bride without outside aid.

Announcement of the engagement came after young Raskob, on vacation from the mill, and his mother, entertained Miss Aaronson at the palatial Raskob home in Wilmington, Del.

It is understood that John's mother took the girl to the apartment where the Raskob family jewels are kept and allowed her to select from the display the ring that was to be her engagement ring.

BETROTHAL ANNOUNCED

Girl friends and office associates of Miss Aaronson, on her return to New Haven, noted immediately the big square diamond on the third finger of her left hand, and closely following the rumors came formal announcement of the engagement.

When Miss Aaronson then was besieged with reporters and photographers she played the part with exceeding grace.

"John and I," she said, "would prefer to have all this over with as quietly as possible. I suppose the fact that a mere secretary is to marry the son of a man of great wealth like our courtship out of the ordinary.

"However, the main thing is that John and I love each other dearly."

She said it would depend on John whether or not she continued to work after marriage.

OLDEST OF 11 CHILDREN

Raskob, the bridegroom, is the eldest of 11 children. Although his father said the son had a good job, young Raskob is understood to be an officer of the East Fibres, Inc., a Maryland corporation, of whose capital Raskob, Sr., supplied a generous slice.

The new concern leased the old Silesia Mill in North Chelmsford and Raskob and his associates, headed by A. McQueen, of London, Ontario, are believed to be experimenting with a new fabric dealing with Chinagrass.

Young Raskob's presence in North Chelmsford first became known when he sidestepped all the shiny receptacles at his father's General Motors Co. and purchased a model T flivver of the crop of 1925 for less than the $20 he paid to have it insured and registered.

The former Miss Aaronson is one of three daughters of Mrs. Elizabeth Aaronson of 344 Sherman ave., New Haven. The two sisters are school teachers in that city.

She is a brunette, tall and slender, dined in dress and with a brilliant record while in school. She was graduated from New Haven High school in 1927 and from the New Haven Secretarial school. Her father was graduated from Yale in 1905.

KING CAROL BUYS OFF HIS TWO "LOVE WOMEN" FOR $400,000

ZIZI IS PAID $320,000 TO DESIST

Mme. Lupescu Gets Only $80,000 to Leave Him Alone; Helen Goes to Paris

By FREDERIC K. ARBOTT, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

(Copyright, 1930, by International News Service.)

Paris, Dec. 12—For $400,000 in cash and the gift of two chateaus, King Carol II of Rumania has "wiped the slate clean" of his early love affairs and settled completely with the two women who played such a prominent part in his life before he became monarch of his kingdom, it was learned exclusively by International News Service today.

BOTH "BOUGHT OFF"

Mme. Zizi Lambrino, his former morganatic wife, and Mme. Alice Gheorghiu Lupescu, the titian-haired beauty for whom he renounced his rights to the Rumanian throne, have both been "bought off" and promised in return to abandon all claims in the future to King Carol's affection or attention.

The complicated details by which Carol disposed of the love affairs, which gained him an international reputation as the royal Don Juan of twentieth-century Europe, were worked out in Paris yesterday by his French attorney, M. Paul Bonnecarr, former president of the Senate, and M. Dinu Cesianu, the Rumanian minister in Paris.

The negotiators first visited Mme. Lambrino at her villa at Neuilly, just outside of Paris, where she has lived for years with her son, born of her morganatic marriage with Carol. Until now, Mme. Lambrino had made ceaseless efforts to induce King Carol to recognize her son, Mircea, as the rightful heir to the Rumanian throne.

$320,000 FROM LAMBRINO

In the presence of M. Boncour and M. Cesianu, Mme. Lambrino signed a paper renouncing all claims upon Carol and abandoning her efforts in behalf of her son. In exchange for this signature she received 4,000,000 francs in cash (about $320,000) in addition to the villa where she resides.

Mme. Lupescu, with whom Carol lived during the years of exile which preceded his dramatic seizure of the throne, also signed an agreement to step completely out of the picture. In exchange for this concession she received 2,000,000 francs (about $80,000) in cash as well as a chateau at Shigel, in Transylvania.

PRINCESS HELEN'S PLANS.

With his old and troublesome "affaires de coeur" now settled to the satisfaction of all concerned, Carol now feels safe to establish his divorced wife, the former Princess Helen of Greece, mother of Michael, in Paris. In this connection the Rumanian minister today received direct orders from his monarch to rent a villa for Princess Helen and arrange suitable furnishings and servants.

She will arrive in Paris about the middle of January, accompanied by two ladies-in-waiting, to take up permanent residence here.

In order not to embarrass Carol by her presence at formal court functions during the Christmas season, it was learned that Princess Helen will leave Bucharest shortly to spend the holidays at a chateau near San Remo, Italy. She will come to Paris shortly afterwards.

Excited Depositors Clamor for Money

EXCITED DEPOSITORS milled about the West Springfield Trust Co. yesterday, trying to withdraw their accounts after J. Malcolm Warren, treasurer of the bank, shot himself to death. Warren left a note explaining that personal losses accounted for his act. State bank examiners found the company in a sound condition. It is expected to reopen soon.

J. MALCOLM WARREN

SHUT BANK TO OPEN BY XMAS

Springfield, Dec. 12 (AP)—The West Springfield Trust Company, which last night passed into the hands of the state banking commissioner after a run yesterday had virtually wiped out its available cash probably will reopen before Christmas, either under its own name or as a branch of a Springfield bank, it was said today by Deputy Banking Commissioner Brimmer now in charge.

Yesterday's run, which brought about suspension of payments early in the afternoon, was caused by discovery earlier in the day that J. Malcolm Warren, treasurer, had committed suicide.

It was learned on apparently good authority that the bank's officers were negotiating with the Third National Bank and Trust Company in an effort to have that larger institution assume control.

Deputy Commissioner Brimmer today reiterated the statement by his superior, Arthur Gay, that the trust company's affairs were in good condition.

Town Treasurer H. E. Schmuck of West Springfield, who has $125,000 of the towns funds on deposit in the bank, said he was not worried.

SHUT BANK TO NEW CLAIMANT TO EARL'S TITLE

London, Dec. 12 (AP)—A hitherto unknown claimant to the title and estate of the Earl of Egmont dramatically interrupted the proceedings just as the sale of the Egmont family portraits was about to begin in Christie's this afternoon.

"I protest against this sale," cried the stranger.

He handed out a card reading: "Mr. R. Pownall, Haydock, Lancashire, claimant of title and estates of the Earl of Egmont."

One claimant to the title and estates already has figured in the newspapers. He is James William Perceval, an Australian, who has been disputing the right of Frederick Joseph Trevelyan Perceval, a rancher, to the title.

The latter came to England from his farm in Canada last year as heir to the 600,000-pound estate and title of the ninth Earl of Egmont, who had died a short time before.

MRS. THAYER NOT SURPRISED BY RAIDERS

Grafton Judge Says That She Phoned Him Someone Was Trying to Enter House

Worcester, Dec. 12—The charge that the raid in which Mrs. Jane H. Thayer and her chauffeur Albert Desjardin were alleged to have been found together was "framed," was made in the Thayer cross-action divorce hearing today.

Judge John B. Scott of the Grafton district court made the charge, adding that Mrs. Thayer telephoned him twice that someone was trying to get into the house before the raiders effect an entrance.

Fred B. Thayer and the deputy sheriffs whom he accompanied on the raid testified that Mrs. Thayer and Desjardin were taken by surprise.

JUDGE DENIES WARNINGS

According to Judge Scott, Mrs. Thayer also telephoned to the state police that someone was trying to break into her home in Grafton.

The witness testified he went to the house while the raiders were still there. He said they told him they could have arrested Mrs. Thayer and Desjardin, but only wanted to get the woman out of the house.

Judge Scott said he replied they were not within a thousand miles of having a case against Mrs. Thayer.

He denied under cross-examination that he warned Mrs. Thayer and Desjardin before the maid, to be discreet. He also denied having said he knew they would get caught after the dogs were taken away.

FIRST WIFE NAMED

His son, Donald Scott, Grafton coal dealer, testified to receiving the two telephone calls from Mrs. Thayer the night of the raid, in which she said someone was trying to enter the house.

Constable John Virden of Worcester told of visiting Thayer's camp at Flint pond, and finding four bullet holes inside, together with empty bottles and glasses.

The name of Mrs. Claire Allaire, first wife of Thayer, was brought into the case for the first time.

Desjardin, chauffeur correspondent, testifying for Mrs. Thayer, said he had seen Thayer standing before the home of Mrs. Allaire at 893 Main st., several times since the divorce actions were begun.

Mrs. Allaire, who has been a constant attendant at the trial, was present in court.

Atty. Clarence E. Tupper, counsel for Mrs. Thayer, produced a photograph which he said was taken at Lowell Airport, showing Thayer, Mrs. Thayer, Desjardin and several others standing in front of an airplane. He charged that all the figures except his client and the chauffeur had been cut out with scissors, and the remaining photo, showing Mrs. Thayer and Desjardin, had been given newspapers and printed by them.

LINDSEY CITES BIBLE IN WAR ON BISHOP

Prophet Amon's Similar Case Is Recalled in Defense Against Manning

New York, Dec. 12 (AP)—Reaching back into Hebrew history as well as into recent annuals of the Episcopal church, former Judge Ben B. Lindsey was prepared to use two precedents this afternoon to answer a charge of disorderly conduct based on his interruption of Bishop William T. Manning in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine last Sunday.

Lindsey planned to cite the case of the prophet Amon, who appeared in the king's chapel at Bethel, the northern kingdom, and interrupted the high priest, Amaziah, to proclaim the injustice of the nobles.

AMON EJECTED

Amon was ejected from the chapel, somewhat as Lindsey was thrown out of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, then he wrote his immortal prophecy.

The judge also relied on an incident in the church of the apostle, Percy Grant, rector of the Church of the Ascension. The Rev. Mr. Grant eulogized the late Theodore Roosevelt from the pulpit. A man jumped up and objected. Grant invited the man to pass his way, after which the pastor repeated his eulogy and the man left the church of his own accord.

CLERGYMEN AND JUDGE

Counsel for Lindsey and Episcopal clergymen versed in canon law asserted him there was nothing in Episcopal laws or regulations to forbid a man to answer a charge from the pulpit.

With Bishop Manning on the stand the defendant hoped to prove he had sufficient provocation for speaking out in answer to the bishop's attack upon his character.

KATHARINE CORNELL TO APPEAR AT MIDNIGHT BENEFIT SHOW

Stage Hands Donate Services for Big Basket Fund Program

Katharine Cornell, one of the greatest emotional actresses of all time, is the latest addition to the gigantic program of stars that will appear at the midnight show in Keith-Boston Theater, December 15, in aid of the Christmas Basket Fund of the Boston Evening American.

Miss Cornell, now playing at the Wilbur Theater in "Dishonored Lady," which is numbered among her most notable successes, gladly assented when A. G. Munro, general manager of the Shubert theaters, asked her to appear at the huge benefit performance.

She will be presented to the audience by Al Duffy, general press representative of several Boston playhouses, who has been co-operating with H. Jay Rice, manager of the Keith-Boston in arranging the program.

FEELS FOR UNFORTUNATES

This exceptional treat for patrons of the midnight show was made possible because of the keen interest felt by Miss Cornell in the plight of hundreds of poor families in Greater Boston.

Hundreds of appeals for food and clothing must be answered, and the hearty responses of theatrical folk have helped in great measure to keep pace with the ever increasing requests for aid.

The entire cast of "The Street Singer," including Queenie Smith, star of the popular musical comedy, Harry K. Morton, Jane Love, Nick Long and Betty Hannon, have volunteered their services as artists and have also sold many tickets.

Frank S. Morino and Sadie Ranks of "Street Scene," playing at the Majestic Theater, have aided the work. A score of vaudeville headliners will be on hand, including Bobby Folsom, Burns and Allen, the Maciose sisters, Eeve and Goody, Miss Rainier and her four Rickeyettes, Tyler Mason, blackface singing and dancing man; Hum and Strum, radio stars, and Don Humbert, the "Whispering Serenader," all of the RKO circuit.

LIST OF STARS

Frank Machata, whose tenor voice has been heard in many Boston night clubs, not only agreed to appear on the program but has joined the voluntary group of ticket sellers. Other night club favorites who will appear are Arthur Brown and Jacques Renard of the Mayfair Club, Mickey Alpert and the very attractive Reynolds sisters from Cocoanut Grove, Jimmie Gallagher, who will serve as master of ceremonies with Arthur Brown and many others.

Even the stage hands at the Keith-Boston have joined the big drive for a record return to the Christmas Basket Fund. A letter from James J. O'Brien, business manager of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes and Moving Picture Operators to the editor of the Basket Fund stated that the members would give their services gratis at the midnight show.

It is such co-operation that assures the Basket Fund of being able to take care of all appeals for help. You can do your share by purchasing for one dollar a ticket to the biggest show of the year.

You will not only enjoy a splendid program of entertainment but will enjoy the thought that by attending the show you have helped to lighten the hearts of someone in need. BUY TICKETS TODAY.

MANY APPEALS FOR HELP

Letters from every part of Boston, from every suburban city and town and from many homes outside of the state continue to flood the desk of the Christmas Basket Fund editor as the final week before the holiday nears.

Pleas for food are numerous, but there are hundreds of families in need of shoes and clothing. Volunteer workers have visited scores of homes.

They have seen many children who are compelled to go to school in tattered clothing. And they have seen many children who are suffering with heavy colds because of the lack of good shoes.

Widowed mothers in every section of the city have sent in pleas for the relief of their hungry children. Each has the same story to tell—nothing to look forward to at Christmas, and after Christmas nothing but the prospect of a winter of privation.

Many more dollars are needed to meet the appeals. The Basket Fund does not want to overlook a single case. You can enjoy a real Christmas by helping those in want. Make this Christmas your happiest by sending a donation—small or large, to the Christmas Basket Fund editor of the Boston Evening American at 5 Winthrop sq.

Hoover Failed Nation, Foster Says

Economist Charges President Had Ample Warning of Business Crash

The Republican administration in Washington, with ample warning of the business depression, failed completely to employ the means to offset it, Dr. William Trueman Foster, economist and writer, charged yesterday.

Speaking at Mayor Curley's conference of economists and college heads, called on behalf of the mayor's plan for a federal industrial planning board, Mr. Foster declared that the root of the present difficulties confronting the nation is an appalling lack of leadership.

Mayor Curley read a letter to the conference in which he outlined his idea of the federal industrial planning board. This would co-ordinate federal industrial activities under one group to study and recommend projects to co-operation with state, city and regional planning associations of the country.

The mayor announced that he was sending the letter to all congressmen from Massachusetts. The proposal was unanimously endorsed by the conference.

Mr. Foster said in part:

"I was down in that gloomy city of Washington only a few days ago and one of the cabinet told me this story: He said a man was traveling on one of those branch line roads in the South when the train stopped. He called a porter and said: 'What is the matter?' and the porter said: 'There is a cow on the track.'

"They got under away again slowly, and before long stopped again. 'What is the trouble now, porter?' The porter said: 'A cow on the track, sir.' They went along again slowly, and for the third time came to a stop. The man again asked the porter: 'What's the matter now?' and the porter said: 'A cow on the track, sir.' The man said: 'What! another cow?' 'No,' said the porter, 'the same cow.'

PLANNING—NO WORK

"I feel as Mr. Curley said he felt lately on his visit to Washington, that somehow with this whole method of long waited planning of public works and the utilization of public expenditures for the prevention of depressions, that somehow or other there seems to be a cow on the track.

"I will go back to two years ago last month when there was a convention of governors in New Orleans. A plan was proposed to the convention in behalf of Mr. Hoover by Governor Brewster of Maine.

"I happen to know something about it because Governor Brewster and myself and others were concerned with the preliminaries to this and because I was asked to go to New Orleans to answer the questions of the governors to the proposed plan, because after we had prepared the proposal to be presented to the governors we had already talked it over with Mr. Hoover.

OUTLINED TO HOOVER

"A year before I spent three hours with President Hoover about the plan of a national planning board. The meeting was called for the express purpose of going over it with Mr. Hoover and Reed Smoot and the chairmen of the important committees of the House and Senate, as we expected Mr. Hoover would be the next President.

"I say this in passing because of what Mayor Curley has said of the need of renewed pressure. It was before them three years ago and the present business depression was described to them and what would happen if something was not done to prevent it.

"Gov. Brewster took it up with President Hoover later on and got his approval to present it to the governors.

"He telegraphed Mr. Hoover his entire speech to the governors and it was before Mr. Hoover before he left to go to Palo Alto. On Armistice Day we received a telegram to present the plan before the governors as his plan and to ask for their cooperation with the federal government in bringing about adequate extension of public works in times of business depression.

"The plan was presented with only one governor opposing it. All the newspapers favored it. Everyone was satisfied that the federal government take the leadership. It was endorsed by President Hoover, in his campaign speeches, and was endorsed by Mr. Mellon and endorsed by Mr. Coolidge and was also a plank in the Democratic party platform.

CRASH WAS EVIDENT

"The business depression was previously evident in the indications four months before the stock market crash and nothing was done. We came to the crash and Mr. Hoover promptly, as expected, invited leaders of all sorts to Washington to see what could be done.

"My impression is that he said acts speak louder than words. And the whole country applauded. The newspapers were unanimous in support of this plan. The country was top him, for the government, for the principle, for the action, ready to support everything. What happened? Same old cow on the track. Nothing happened, words instead of acts, words, words, words.

"Mind you, in the business depression of 1920 wages fell off over $7,000,000,000 in one year. We had reason to expect that if nothing adequate was done to stay the business depression wages would fall off more than that. The estimates of the standard statistics office are that they would fall off $5,000,000,000. You cannot restore business to the level of one and a half years ago unless the $5,000,000,000 in wages are brought back.

"They have got to be brought back to carry on the business of a year and a half ago. The money was driven out of circulation by the action of the Federal Reserve Board and whether you agree it was a wise action or not, the fact remains it was the pressure and demand of the Federal Reserve System which took out of circulation several billions of dollars. It did not go from the stock market into business, it went from the stock market out of business. Until it comes back there is no hope for business prosperity.

U. S. DOES NOTHING

"What did the federal government do for its part of the program? The actual contracts awarded for public buildings in the first six months of this year was $37,000,000. That was just contracts awarded, not money put in circulation. In fact, they did virtually nothing, as far as a public building program is concerned.

"Following this we have an announcement from the White House, which we are supposed to applaud, that they succeeded in cutting down the proposed budget for the next 12 months by $87,000,000.

"Cutting it down! It ought to be unnecessary to tell anybody that you can reduce expenditures on the one hand and increase them on the other.

"There is no excuse for quibbling; it is a time like this. We have the raw materials; greater wealth; greater inventive power; more marvelous machinery and the greatest productive power. We also have a system of bank credit capable of expansion to meet our needs. The resources are there, the gold is there.

"One of the troubles of the world is too much gold here. We have actually increased our idle sterile gold in the world today by $300,000,000.

NEED LEADERS

"We have everything in the United States, the materials, the machines, the money, the men; what do we lack? Just one thing. Those upon whom the responsibility for leadership rests have failed us.

"Take the 'Buy Now' campaigns. They are good campaigns, I took part of them myself. We ought to have 'Buy Now' campaigns. The wage earners would be better off if they spent more money. The well-to-do would be better off if they spent more money now.

"Of course, there are some individuals who ought to save for their own good. These campaigns are a good, constructive character and sound and helpful.

"Senator Wagner introduced a bill two years ago for the expenditure of $50,000,000 for public works in the event of depression —$150,000,000 for public works for wages other wages have fallen off $8,000,000,000.

"Many of us went to Washington and argued with the President in an endeavor to interest them to pay some attention to that bill, which was the only constructive measure offered at the

Times Too Critical for Quibbling, Says Foster

"There is no excuse for quibbling in a time like this. We have the raw materials; greater wealth; greater inventive power; more marvelous machinery, and the greatest productive power. We have also a system of bank credit capable of expansion to meet our needs. The resources are there, the gold is there.—From George Trueman Foster's address at the conference of economists and college heads yesterday.

Leaders Allowed "Cow on the Track" to Hold Up Relief Measures

time, but they would pay no attention to it.

"When the depression came it was six months after the crash; ten months after the evidence of this depression was clearly visible in the index, I was called to Washington, to appear before a committee of the House, which was just beginning to consider this bill. What happened? They are still considering it. Not one dollar of the $150,000,000 has been spent for public works. There was no other constructive program.

"We lack constructive leadership on the part of the Federal government and the other group upon whom leadership rests, the bankers of the United States. Bankers as a whole have utterly failed us in the hour of need."

MYSTERY BLAZE IN MATTAPAN

Fire of a mysterious origin broke out early today in the one-story brick structure at 1288A, 1282H and 1280C Blue Hill ave., Mattapan, occupied by three stores.

A passerby saw smoke coming out of the building and sounded an alarm. The fire, according to the Mattapan police, started in the basement of 1282B Blue Hill ave., occupied by the Boston Furnace Co., and spread rapidly to the adjoining meat market at 1282H and the delicatessen store at 1283C, owned by Mrs. Anna Blakan.

Although several nearby tenements were threatened, the occupants did not have to leave. Police are investigating the cause.

Christmas Session Frowned on by Senators

Washington, Dec. 12 (U.P.)—A proposal by Rep. John Q. Tilson, of Connecticut, Republican House leader, that Congress devote its soon Christmas vacation to labor on unemployment relief measures, was frowned upon by senators yesterday.

Tilson had suggested to Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican Senate leader, that Congress remain in session until Christmas eve and return December 26.

Indications were Congress will recess December 20 until December 29.

SOVIET RAPS U. S., HOOVER

Moscow, Dec. 12 (AP)—Izvestia, organ of the Soviet Central Executive committee, commenting today on American regulations barring goods manufactured by forced labor, says:

"There is no use in President Hoover attempting to protest that this is not aimed at the Soviet Union, since even the American press admits it."

The editorial accuses the treasury department of being influenced "by a small group of American bourgeoisie who produce similar goods and who want the Soviet imports limited as much as possible."

Carpenter Falls 2 Stories; Breaks Arm

Plymouth, Dec. 12—Trapped in the cellar of a house in which they had been at work, two carpenters were forced to remain there for more than an hour before they could attract the attention of passers-by. Both men were injured in the fall.

The men, Michael Devine, 50, of Harlow street, Plymouth, and Joseph Perry, 30, of Harlow street, Plymouth, were working on the interior of the house, which is owned by Mrs. Mary Hall of Plymouth. They were standing on a platform in the cellar when it collapsed, precipitating them to the floor below. Devine suffered a broken arm and Perry received a fractured left leg. The carpenters were leaving the cellar when the collapse occurred. Neighbors, attracted by the noise, heard their cries for help and came to their rescue.

Both men were taken to the Plymouth City Hospital, where they were treated by Dr. Charles Bennett. Devine's arm was set and Perry's leg was placed in a cast.

Devine and Perry were employed by Contractor Frank Hall of Plymouth.

DROUTH RELIEF CALLED GOLD PIPE LINE

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—"A pipe line into the treasury," was the description given in the House today by Republican floor leader Tilson referring to the Senate's $60,000,000 drouth relief bill. He condemned especially the provision for loans for food and clothing.

"The high-principled and industrious will insist on treating it as a loan and will cripple themselves in an attempt to repay it," he said. "The idle and shiftless will accept it as a gift and live off the Federal Government as long as the opportunity exists."

APPEALS FOR HOOVER BILL.

Appealing for support of the House agriculture committee's $25,000,000 proposal, limited to seed and fertilizer loans, Tilson said:

"If our real purpose is to drill a pipe line into the federal treasury and establish the dole in the United States, with all that will be necessary to follow, not only in the stricken areas, but throughout the country where communities after community is generously providing for the needs of its people in accordance with American tradition and American spirit, then let us adopt the Senate bill.

"In doing so, however, let us at least understand what we are doing and the direction which the road upon which we are entering leads."

CONFERENCE REQUESTED.

"Under the policy proposed in the Senate bill," Tilson said, "every proposed charitable cause, good or bad, will expect to find a responsible federal government at its beck and call."

Representative Aswell, Democrat, Louisiana, a member of the agriculture committee, replied the Senate bill was supported by the President's drouth relief committee and by State agricultural commissioners.

The House refused to accept the Senate's amendment to the emergency unemployment fund bill and asked for a conference.

Chief among the Senate changes were amendments raising the total appropriation from $100,000,000 to $118,000,000, and a refusal to give President Hoover discretionary power in expending the money.

Gunmen Rob Bank

Winnipeg, Dec. 12 (AP)—Three men robbed a branch of the Bank of Montreal at gunpoint today and escaped with $8700.

Weds Sprinter

MRS. NEVA PRISK MALABY, daughter of a Pasadena, Cal., publisher, became the bride last night of Charles W. Paddock, former sprint king. They were married at the home of the bride's parents. (Int'l photo.)

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 12 (US)—Charles W. Paddock, "the world's fastest human," former track star and internationally famous sprinter acquired a running make last night when he promised to "love, honor and cherish" Mrs. Neva Prisk Malaby.

The couple were wedded at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Prisk. The Rev. Robert Freeman of the Pasadena Presbyterian Church performed the service.

Army Reserve Urged to Relieve Jobless

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—A proposal to provide a special army reserve of 250,000 men to relieve unemployment was made today by Representative Celler, Democrat, New York. The men, between 18 and 45 years old, would enlist for one year. During that time the bill would provide for them to receive vocational training. They would have to leave the service only after receiving employment.

Einstein Dishes Out Theories

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

can bend sunlight. But you can't do much with a banker.

"I see that Commissioner Doran is dropping eggs in alcohol.

"I prefer mine cooked in butter.

"My relativity theory on space proves there is always room for one more sucker when the line forms to the right.

"As to my theory on the relativity of time I think that six months is about right for a New York judge.

"I can tell you the exact location of the unknown planets. I can plot the celestial orbits down to a whisper. But don't ask me where Judge Crater is."

The interview was over. But it proved that a young fact is better than an old rumor.

Professor says the good old hoss is threatened with extinction.

That's no threat.

If there was only one hoss in the world we would be on him. And lose.

But the last hoss in the world will not be the one that plays leap frog with the prince over the Liverpool jump.

It will not be Black Beauty or Salvadore. It will be the nag that clatters past our window every morning at five.

It will be a milk wagon gazelle with four hoofs all out of tune and tempo.

We have often threatened that hoss with extinction.

Also the driver.

And the wagon. But the hoss seems impervious to diplomatic insinuations.

He's got the loudest feet we ever heard. And a cobbled street makes a fine xylophone for him to scamper on.

We know he's going to be the last hoss in the world. He's been going by our window for the last 30 years and has never skipped a beat.

The sound of iron-hoss shoes on a frozen street is a beautiful lullaby in a dawn that is colder than a well-digger's dinner pail.

And we know that milk hoss is going to outlast all the others because he's now fifty years old and hasn't got a beard yet.

Hosses have played an important role in history. King Richard hallered for one but Jesse James couldn't spare any. Paul Revere used one in a Marathon and should have been disqualified.

We used to curry one in the army. His name was Dynamite. We can always buy him carpet slippers for Christmas because we have the exact pattern of his feet on our chest. One day we curried him against the grain just to hear him laugh.

They weren't handing out Good Conduct medals for that.

But we got an honorable discharge from the army. Not because we rated it. But because they had run out of the other kind.

With thirty million motor cars in America, any hoss is out of place if he isn't receiving guests in a museum of natural history.

3 SHARP BARBS NEWTON LOVE BY CHESTERTON ENDS IN ROWS

Worcester, Dec. 12 (AP)—Gilbert K. Chesterton, English essayist and novelist, here to lecture at Holy Cross College, today gave tersely, in an interview, his views on companionate marriage and prohibition and the Nobel Prize award in literature.

He said:

"I admire Sinclair Lewis and enjoy his work immensely. He is great fun. But if I had been awarding the prize I think I would have given to a writer more national in scope rather than a satirist—even though he be a necessary and wholesome satirist."

As to companionate marriage, he said:

"I prefer civilized institutions to barbaric customs."

"Prohibition is an immoral thing. If it had been a success, it would have been a wicked success—a success of the devil."

Science May Harness Sun to Give the World Power

New York, Dec. 12 (AP)—Dr. Robert A. Millikan, the physicist, said today that science already knows enough to outline a method of getting power out of sunshine.

He predicted this will be done when coal and oil sources are exhausted in an address before the Association of Life Insurance Presidents.

He said one other possible continuous source of energy exists in hydrogen from sea water, but with no known way of using it.

"For the past century," he said, "men have been using the sunshine bottled in coal and oil in bygone ages, and this reserve will do for us and our children. But what then?

"There is enough energy sent to us each day by the sun for all our needs, those present now and those reasonable in prospect, and without calling upon stored-up supplies of any kind. Two modern counties in our latitude receive from the sun in a day as much heat as is produced by all the coal burned in 24 hours throughout the world.

"Further, we now know enough already to be able to outline the main methods by which to go to work to utilize this inflow of sunshine. It is only an economic reason that prevents us from utilizing sunshine directly now. We are not likely to utilize it appreciably so long as coal and oil and gas are as abundant and accessible as now."

He sketched a future in which science will "almost indefinitely increase the satisfaction of human wants." Science, he said, creates more jobs than it destroys, adding:

"In the long run I expect science, or better, the method of science, to go a long way toward solving the unemployment problem."

TWO ARRESTED IN LAWRENCE STOCK CASE

A stock-selling campaign in Lawrence that began early in the fall was climaxed today by arrest of Abraham H. Caplan, alias J. Wise, 30, of Collins st., Mattapan, and Harry R. Cushner, alias Robert Russell, of Commonwealth ave., on charges of selling unregistered stock.

The arrests were made by Inspectors Cornelius Ring and Thomas Towle of the Boston police and John Bolton of Lawrence.

After being booked at Boston police headquarters the alleged stock salesmen were turned over to the Lawrence inspector.

Caplan and Cushner are alleged to have sold unregistered stock of the Curtiss-Wright Aero Corporation to John H. Hollenbach and Fred Koenig, both of Lawrence.

Police allege, however, that seven victims, including a minister, were sold $11,000 worth of stock in Lawrence.

Cambridge Creates Fund for Aid of Unemployed

Definite and practical measures to combat unemployment in Cambridge were taken today when Mayor Richard M. Russell and the Cambridge Industrial Association formed a trust to be known as the Cambridge Unemployment Fund, the fund to be expended for the purpose of providing temporary employment for Cambridge citizens.

The trustees of the fund are Joseph W. Motherwell, president of the Cambridge Industrial Association, Mayor Russell, Albert N. Murray, Edmund F. Brigham, Patrick Maloney, and Harry P. Kitfield.

The provisions of the trust follow:

Members of the Association and others may subscribe money to a trust fund which is to be administered without profit to subscribers and trustees and which is to be known as the "Cambridge Unemployment Fund," said fund to be expended for the purpose of providing temporary employment to citizens of Cambridge in need of assistance.

The money subscribed to this fund shall be spent by the Trustees for the general purpose of relieving unemployment by furnishing employment to citizens of Cambridge who are out of work.

The services of the men who are to be employed are to be offered by the Trustees to the City of Cambridge gratuitously for whatever purpose might be deemed expedient or for the benefit of the city, as decided by the mayor.

The trustees may carry workmen's compensation insurance and, in addition, may insure themselves.

Love for His Works Made Shaw Refuse Peerage

By NANCY BREWSTER

Although "indifferent to literary and personal immortality," Bernard Shaw has refused a British peerage to leave to posterity his works made famous under his own name.

[illegible] gave a glimpse of Bernard Shaw's character as revealed by his friend and admirer, Maurice Colbourne, at a luncheon of members of the Drama League of Massachusetts in the Hotel Kenmore yesterday.

Not the opportunity [illegible] been extended for Shaw to [illegible] who has long enjoyed [illegible] interchange with [illegible] one of the most famous men in his group.

A PERFECT HOST

Patrons [illegible] Colbourne completed a point-by-point analysis presence explained [illegible] the famous host of the famous Bloomsbury group.

Preparing the Theatre Guild of New York and now a partnership, the Apollo Club, one of Shaw's plays, Colbourne paused to pay ardent tribute to Mrs. Shaw.

The domestic life of the Shaws is perfect, he said, and Mrs. Shaw has been an inspiration to her husband.

"There is twinkle in Shaw's tongue and a twinkle, a delightful twinkle in his eye, and both twinkles are important in the makeup of this white-bearded giant," Colbourne explained. "Which absolves Shaw completely from any charge of egoism in my mind.

REFUSED PEERAGE

"I remember when Shaw was approached with the offer of a peerage, and a reporter asked him if the offer was so. Said Shaw very seriously, but mischievously, 'I haven't heard of anything yet, but if any title is offered to me more illustrious than Bernard Shaw, I'll let you know.' Such remarks have done much of course to establish an unwarranted charge of egoism.

"Shaw is indifferent to literary immortality. He has no regard for personal immortality. He was once asked what he would like to do most and his answer was this profound comment: 'I would like to go back into the stream of life's forces and review the battalions of the future.'

"Shaw has beautiful manners. I remember taking a friend with me to visit Shaw one day and my friend had a camera. He thought that Shaw would object to the camera and so he concealed it. After chatting with Shaw, he felt so at home and so completely at ease that he became sufficiently bold to tell him that he had a camera and asked him if he would pose for a photograph. 'Certainly; let's go out into the sunshine,' answered Shaw, perfectly congenial.

MRS. SHAW CAMERA SHY

"And then Shaw told of his wife's definitely adverse attitude toward the camera. He naturally explained that she was shy and always did not object when cameras were displayed. But Shaw doesn't feel that," Colbourne said, recalling the author's expression that whenever he heard the click of a camera, he instinctively ducked.

"Mrs. Shaw is a delightful woman," Colbourne continued, "she has been an inspiration to [illegible] It is not only a feather in the cap of Shaw but one in the bonnet of Mrs. Shaw that they have been married for so long and still at it, going strong, and there has never been one ripple in the surface detrimental to their marital felicity. Queen Jemima in the Apple Cart was inspired, no doubt, by the lovely Mrs. Shaw, a real human being."

Commenting on the recent visit to the city of Gilbert K. Chesterton [illegible] told the women that he and Shaw had agreed to disagree [illegible] on every subject under the sun although remain warm personal friends.

A feature of the club program was the presentation to Mrs. Elaine G. Allen of an honorary life membership for her daughter, Marjorie Wyckoff Allen. After the talks and a musical program by Robert Mulliken, the three vice presidents of the club served as hostesses. They are Mrs William J McDonald Mrs Herbert J. Libby and Mrs. James C. Peabody

The Morse Uptown store at 45 Summer Street is right in the very center of the shopping district ..a store of gift suggestions, select patronage, and courteous service.

The Morse Downtown store at Adams Square is away from the crowds .. full to the brim with the sort of practical wearables that make excellent "givables".

And whether it's a silk lined robe at $10, or wool socks at $1, "he" will be mighty happy knowing you thought enough of him to select his gift in a real man's store.

Christmas Dainties Topic in Martha Lee School

From Martha Lee's Friday morning broadcast over Station WEEI

We're all puffed up at the praise received for the Christmas fruit made in the Martha Lee Cooking School this week—especially for a Christmas jelly, intended as a substitute for the plum pudding that many calorie counters won't be too rich to indulge in after a big holiday dinner.

Martha Lee

This jelly is easily made by soaking 2 tbsp. of gelatine in ½ cup cold water for 10 minutes. Then dissolved in ¾ cup boiling water and add 2 cups sweet cider and about ¾ cup sugar. Stir up the sugar is dissolved and the mixture begins to thicken add 1 cup of date, chopped with a knife, 1-3 cup nut meats and ½ cup of chopped prunes or figs, and a cup candied citron. Mr. molded this in a star-shape mold from which it may easily be turned out by dipping the mould in lukewarm water all over and turning it upside down in a serving plate. Whipped cream, flavored with cooking sherry or vanilla added the finishing touch of delicousness.

The little Christmas cakes topped with a fine gumdrop Christmas tree were quite easy. Any simple cake recipe will do for the foundation cakes. We used ½ c. shortening, 2-3 c. sugar, 2 c. flour, 2 tsps. baking powder, ½ tsp. salt, almond flavoring to taste, ½ c. sweet milk and 2 stiffly beaten egg whites. Cream the shortening and sugar together thoroughly, add the egg yolks and beat well, then add the flour sifted with the baking powder and salt alternately with the milk, beating well after each addition. Add flavoring and fold in the egg whites. Bake in cake tins in a moderate oven (375 deg. F.) for 15 minutes or 375 deg. F. for 20 minutes.

Frosting: Cream confectioners sugar and enough warm water to make a thick paste. Add a few drops of green coloring and tint another bowl of frosting pink. Ice some of these cakes with the pink frosting and decorate with candies to represent Christmas trees. The Christmas trees were made by cutting a few drops of green coloring into some melted chocolate and then rolling in cocoanuts. Cinnamon drops were used for the trunk and a small bit of angelica for the star.

Apple sauce and last-minute desserts also were made and there was a demonstration of sugar sauce. Sauce is added by sugar drops. Popular flavors are vanilla and mocha mallow. Any sauce is dipped in the hot sauce.

I'm only sorry I haven't room for the recipes in this column but I'll be glad to send them to you if you'll drop me a line at 5 Winthrop sq., Boston.

Enroll Now for School

If you were one of the 400 who tried to get in to enroll in our fall cooking school, "let this be a lesson to ye," as grandmother used to say, and get your application in soon for our January classes. These will open on January 13 and 14 and will continue until graduation on March 17 and 18.

As usual the Brides and Business Girls Class will be held on Tuesday evening from 6:30 to 8:30 and the Homemakers School on Wednesday afternoons from 2 to 4. An entirely new, practical and interesting series of lessons has been arranged for this winter class, and we feel sure that you will enjoy being with us, as much as we shall enjoy having you.

While visitors are welcome at all classes, it is necessary to secure a registration ticket of admission if you wish to qualify for a Martha Lee Cooking School diploma, which is awarded to those attending 7 out of 10 lessons.

Welcome for Visitors

Visitors are welcome at the Martha Lee School of Practical Cookery. The more the merrier.

We'd be glad to see you there and take your registration for the January class. The recipes are different every session so you will be always learning something new. There is always a chance of a vacant seat in the back of the hall, and if there's anything we do grieve over, it's a vacant seat with so many good friends wanting to come in and visit us.

Fondly yours,

Martha Lee

New form of Chipso eliminates "working up" suds

Chipso Granules burst into suds at touch of water! Mountains of rich, lively suds!

Mrs. C. P.—
"Takes very little to make a tubful of suds"

"I was amazed to see the amount of suds I got with a small quantity of Chipso," writes a Dedham woman. "I was still more amazed to see how long they lasted! Those suds were still there after two hours of soaking my clothes. I could do what little rubbing was necessary without adding soap. And clothes were spotless!"

"Never got such suds before even when I worked hard for them!" writes Mrs. B. J., of Swampscott

Mountains of sparkling, lively suds—the minute you turn the faucet! Wouldn't you like to have them in your washtub and your dishpan? Then try Chipso Granules, the new form of Chipso. Chipso Granules are simply rich Chipso suds in steam-dried form. Even lukewarm water dissolves each tiny bubble into a soap-solution of concentrated cleaning power. Chipso Granules save time—they save hands—and—they give real Chipso results!

Mrs. E. M.—
"Wash done in a jiffy now"

"I'm fussy about my washing. That's why I don't have a laundress—and why I've always made such hard work of it myself, until I used Chipso Granules. Now I let the thick, creamy Chipso suds soak the dirt out instead of doing hard rubbing. My clothes look perfect; colored things seem bright as new."

Mrs. C. H.—
"People always speak about my hands"

"Perhaps it sounds conceited to boast about nice hands, but for a long time I didn't have them! Strong soaps reddened my skin, and I thought my nails were ruined. Since using Chipso Granules, however, I have my hands in water only about a third of the time I used to—and Chipso doesn't seem to hurt them. They look young again!"

Why Chipso is the world's most popular washing machine soap

Chipso (in flake and granule form) is used in more washing machines than any other soap. Just try it and you'll find out why! Chipso lightens the work of your washer, as well as your own work; that extra hand rubbing is practically eliminated, yet clothes are treated gently. Try a tubful of Chipso suds for your next wash!

Lights Spread Real Cheer

Have you been through Central Square in Cambridge lately? It's worth a trip just to enjoy the beautiful colored lights that have been strung all over the square to brighten your Christmas shopping.

This Christmas the colored Christmas lights seem to have an especial significance. They seem to tell us that home owners shop keepers and countless others are celebrating not only the Christmas season but the signs of better times, which are surely but surely coming. No matter how blue and discouraged we are the cheerful lights certainly do make the whole world seem gayer and brighter. So when you are decorating your home grounds or shop with loads strings of glowing colorful lights this year you'd have the satisfaction of knowing that you are not only making the world a more beautiful place for the holidays to live but carrying a message of cheer to passersby.

Graduation Programs in Lee School Next Week

There'll be big doings in the Martha Lee Cooking School Tuesday and Wednesday of next week when two big classes will receive the Martha Lee School diplomas.

For a particularly great number of guests have been placed for [illegible] each of these days, so some regretfully, to the disappointment of many others, ALEX is due to evening and Wednesday afternoon. Perhaps to some of you who have a friend graduate a place we can [illegible].

Vegetable Market Off

The vegetable lover will mourn this week to find celery, squash, carrots, hot-house lettuce and tomatoes about the only vegetables offered at anything like reasonable prices. However, you can balance your proteins nicely with California Valencia oranges, which are still on the market, or the California Navels which are becoming more plentiful.

Turkey prices, alas, seem to be soaring, but pork to roast is still low. A few native capons and is there anything more delicious? are retailing for 30c to 35c a pound. Egg prices are lower praise be.

And when you're in the meat market, don't forget that the winter birds will appreciate a chunk of suet tied securely to a tree, fence post or rail.

Clean Silver With Safety

Silver getting dark and cloudy? Hate the thought of cleaning your forks and spoons and knives? Don't you? But recall at Martha Lee's office [illegible] silver cleaning paste made by a famous baking powder company. You put two quarts of hot water in a pan or kettle (not aluminum) and place one silver cleaning plate in the bottom of the kettle.

Put your knives, forks, spoons or candle sticks tea pots etc. on top so that the water covers them. Leave until tarnished places disappear, take out and dry vigorously with a soft cloth.

There is no soap in this chemical plate so your silver has no greasy traces to mar it. In putting the silver in the kettle, be sure each piece touches the cleaning plate or [illegible] does, connect with the cleaning plate. That is all. No scrubbing or rubbing with messy cleaning creams or [illegible]. Will not harm your [illegible] silverware. We have [illegible] of the plate—only used [illegible]. No charge, of course.

Salad Washer's a Joy

A [illegible] washer is a real joy. It is a big wire sphere that opens in the center. Just pop in your lettuce or spinach, shake thoroughly under the cold water and behold—crisp, clean, cool greens.

Why Not Baked Ham?

For Sunday's dinner, why not baked ham, baked pineapple slices and sweet potatoes? You'll have a picture of ham left over for cold [illegible] delicious omelets and [illegible] salad.

Electrical Christmas Gifts Fascinating

Almost any day that I'm missing from 3 Winthrop sq. you can find me at one of the corner electrical Christmas gifts are displayed trying to decide whether Aunt Margaret would prefer an electric warming pan or an electrical alarm clock, or maybe a prompt breakfast for Uncle Henry.

I'm fascinated by the new automatic Hot Point toaster that turns the toast on one side and then, presto, the other side, all by itself. And then there are the lovely electric reading lamps, some with the Spanish high shade effect and triple bulb panel. For grandmother the [illegible] and Bobby my son one of the new [illegible] shine lamps, which bring a beautiful rays of June sunshine right into your home.

And for mother why not one of the new waffle irons, one of Aunt Margaret would prefer an electric warming pan or an electrical alarm clock, or maybe a prompt breakfast for Uncle Henry.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Editor Boston American:

Now [illegible] seriously of missing people happy, Christmas will soon be here. This is one season of the year when joy should ring in the home life. Children are thinking of Santa Claus. BROKEN RAINBOWS

The Quick, Brilliant Story of a Strange Love Triangle

Gracie Buys Clothes in Shopping Orgy

HOW THE STORY STARTS

Wilda Gardner, bookkeeper in a hardware store, is in love with Logan Townsend, who "has not spoken yet."

He is no Adonis, Wilda thinks, but he has a rare smile. This smile also attracts Bess Avery, a stenographer in an office near Logan's. Wilda's mother, Gracie, has been strangely distracted since the father died. He is understood to have left much money and she plans to leave the poor little cottage in which they live in Boston and get in touch with a richer life. Wilda goes to house party where she meets Logan and he tells his love. Myrtle tries to gain Logan's favor at a swimming party.

By MAY CHRISTIE

(Copyright, 1929.)

INCREDIBLE IT WAS . . . and maddening, too . . . that Logan didn't see the lovely Myrtle on the earth or in the sea, and that his eyes were all for such a very ordinary person!

"It's that French bathing-suit she wears. Yellow and blue! So bold! Myrtle felt tigerish.

She was angry, too, she hadn't learnt to swim properly or to dive . . .

Wilda, far out of her depth, was gracefully flinging a water-ball to Logan. They were having heaps of fun . . . as much at home as seals . . . twisting and turning.

Lunch Date
Wants to Be With Her

Myrtle crept out on a rocky point, so that she might get a closer view of them.

They didn't notice Myrtle. They were absorbed in each other.

As she came nearer, moving with swift grace, something occurred that halted her.

For Logan swam up to Wilda, and — pretending to tussle for the ball — gave her a swift kiss in the water. . . .

Logan and Wilda bowled back home in the former's little car on Sunday evening.

The roads were crowded. What did that matter? Lucky they were to be alone. With Myrtle determined to intervene, and play unwanted third, getting away he'd felt had taken some maneuvering.

"You'll lunch with me tomorrow, won't you, Wilda?"

"Sure I will, Logan if I can manage it."

"But you must." His voice was impressive, insistent.

He couldn't see enough of her by next.

Oh! he was glad he'd won by one of his bold . . .

"You're sailing Wednesday night, you say? I want to be with you every blessed minute."

The big test of love! That proved it.

"If anything comes in the way, I'll phone——"

"I'll mustn't. I won't permit it."

There was assurance in his tone. The knowledge that she loved him made him triumphant.

"Grace's got such a lot for me to do——"

Puts Logan Off
Wilda Is Fearful

"We'll fix it."

It was late now. They had been held up continually by the Sunday night congestion of traffic.

"Listen, Wilda. I'm anxious to tell your mother our grand news, so let me come in for a minute."

But an odd nervousness obsessed the girl long before they reached the little house.

"Gracie won't like it. I'm afraid. Her plans, you know—And just on the eve of us going away, and all, it'll be sure to upset her."

His face sobered and stiffened. "You mean that she doesn't consider I'm good enough? she wants you to marry some big noise over in Europe?"

"Oh, don't say that. You mustn't jump to such conclusions."

He knit his brows and stared ahead of him. He stared straight ahead of him and . . . I didn't mean to know you, Wilda."

"You don't. You don't. You

Good Values Are Plentiful If the Shopper Knows How to Buy

(The nineteenth and concluding article in a series of interviews with Massachusetts women leaders in organizations to those who buy goods and to the firms who sell them, concerning their mutual and vital problem of receiving and giving full value in every purchase.)

MRS. COLIN W. MacDONALD
Member of the Board of Election Commissioners, and former Chairman of the Women's Democratic State Committee.

WE ARE over organized on everything except distribution. . . . Some forward looking stores got ready for the new era. Their management had vision and brains.

Stores today are selling with a smaller percentage of profit than for many years.

This is conspicuous in furs which are not a luxury in these times when girls are wearing silk stockings and no petticoats in freezing weather.

Stores as well as individuals, must strive to preserve the human interest and contact.

People are willing to pay for interested service, as we note by the business done by gift shops, specializing in this way.

KATHARINE V. PARKER
President Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts, past state officer American Legion Auxiliary.

THE SHOPPER usually knows which stores she prefers for price, style and quality, but we might all know those stores better to facilitate our purchases.

If we know what price we want to pay and where the articles at that price are kept in the store, we can save time and strength hunting for them.

Doubtless it is excellent for store people to decide for those women who cannot decide for themselves or who do not know their own style, but judgment is required to distinguish between these and the many live type who know what they want and are offended if not given the consideration they expect.

MISS KATHARINE VOSE PARKER.

MRS. LOUISA B. SKILTON
Director of Boston Home Information Center.

TEXTILES have changed since the war so much that no woman, trying to make her income cover the most value, can afford not to be informed on these.

She must know whether she wants to spend her money for style alone or for value.

The homemaker who worked on a certain basis during the war cannot do that now.

She has to be informed on new things as they come along, and the stores that are doing this are serving the consumer in the truest sense.

Junior League Girls Work Hard at Rehearsals for "Blue Bird"

MRS. SHEDDEN MISS INCHES MISS BENT MRS. COLLINS

MISS EDITH PARKER, who is taking a prominent part in "Blue Bird," is going over part of the show with Irving Larke during rehearsal yesterday. Miss Parker is not unknown to the stage, having appeared in a number of casts during the past two years. Mr. Larke is director of the play.

MISS KATHERINE CUNNINGHAM GRAY plays the Cat in "Blue Bird." She is a promising concert singer, but has her eyes on a chance in the movies. She has frequently appeared before the radio "mike" and is often heard on charitable programs. (Staff photos.)

BUSY HOURS are being put in by society girls at morning hour rehearsals of "Blue Bird," the 1930 Junior League play. They'll present the play at the Repertory Theater on December 27, 29 and 30. Here the four of the cast: Mrs. W. M. Sheddon, as Granny, Miss Louise Inches, as Gaffer, Miss Margaret Bent, as Tytyl and Mrs. C. T. Collins, as Mytyl.

Junior Leaguers Eager for Daily Rehearsal of Play

Boston can't be behind New York or Newport Society in its efforts of having its young people interested in dramatic ambitions. A rehearsal each day for the Junior League play, "Blue Bird," to be given at the Repertory Theater on December 27, 29 and 30, has the young ladies who are to participate in the play in a dither of excitement. Probably the most active of the Blue Bird cast is Miss Edith Parker, who is taking the part of Mytyl. Miss Parker has had much experience in the theatrical line, having appeared in a number of plays during the past two years. Irving Larke is directing the play.

LOVES THE STAGE

"I love the stage, and, though I'm not doing anything this season, I hope to get back to it next year," said the society miss. "My people don't mind a bit. In fact, they're quite pleased with the fact that I have chosen the stage as a career."

Miss Katherine Cunningham Gray is playing the part of the Cat. Miss Gray has had a great deal of experience in the theatrical line, having appeared on the radio many times. She is also doing a great deal of charity work and hopes to benefit during the play.

"I'd like to do concert work," said the singer. "But they say there's a better chance in the movies. I wouldn't mind that because I'd like to combine acting with singing, and I think I can do it."

Miss Bent, who is playing the part of Tylyl, is also a member of the Cadets. The part of Mytyl is played by Miss Mary Sheddon, who is a member of the Junior League. Miss Sheddon is also a member of the Cadets. The part of Granny is played by Miss Louise Inches, who is also a member of the Cadets. The part of Gaffer is played by Miss Margaret Bent, who is a member of the Cadets.

Boys May Die for Dear Old Harvard But When a Cadet

Says He'd Freeze for the Army He Really Means It

Shirts, Blankets, Bathrobes at Stake Tomorrow

When Army meets Navy, be it on land or on sea, at football or at ping-pong, the odds always are "even," as far as the young stalwarts of the two institutions and the men of the service are concerned. The professional betting odds for tomorrow's Army-Navy football duel may be something like 10 to 7. But in the service Cadet and Middy, soldier and sailor, from Admiral down to ordinary seaman and from General down to buck private, everyone will bet at evens. And the Army-Navy game is the one game which the old sporting expression, "bet their shirt," goes literally. Hundreds of middies and cadets really have wagered their shirts on the outcome of tomorrow's big pigskin duel—not only their shirts but belts, cuff buttons, bathrobes, sweaters, blankets and other personal articles of regulation equipment.

Money is scarcer than hen's teeth up there on the heights of the Hudson and down there on the banks of the Severn. How scarce the general public doesn't understand. Do you realize that on the rare occasions when a Cadet gets a leave and takes a flapper to the-ater, restaurant or ball, nine times out of ten the fine upstanding, straightbacked young god, whose martial appearance invariably sets all feminine hearts aflutter, hasn't got a dollar in his jeans, and that the woman pays?

George Underwood.

"Struth! And so stricken are some of the femmes over the handsome young Mars in Cadet gray that they pay and pay gladly. Most of 'em figure they're getting him cheap and it is worth a hundred times as much just to be seen in his company.

The Cadet has no pockets in his uniform. Did you ever notice that?

If he had pockets, it wouldn't do him any good, for he has no money. Gold diggers fight shy!

A Cadet is not allowed to receive money from home or anywhere except Army sources.

Under the law Uncle Sam is supposed to pay each Cadet $65 per month. But he sees loss of that $65 than Pat sees of his wage after turning the pay envelope over to the good woman.

In the first place, $14 of his $65 is taken out so he will have some money to purchase his uniform upon graduation. Of the remaining $51 a certain part is set aside to pay his expenses on the six leaves he is granted in his senior year. He doesn't get the rest. The essentials and "luxuries" he buys at the Point are paid for in "chits" It is a queer cadet who does not find at settlement time that his "chits" have eaten up all his princely salary not set aside for uniform and leaves.

Not so long ago a cadet was left $2,000,000 and wanted to throw a little party. But when he asked for one of the six week-end leaves he found his "chits" had taken up his $51, as usual. So had to wait until after graduation to celebrate.

DOLLAR A GAME

Before a football game a cadet is permitted to draw one dollar from his fund, if he has one dollar left. Invariably that one dollar is wagered on the team

Now what would you do if you were a Cadet and a Middy wrote you, challenging you to bet your shirt on the result of the Army-Navy game?

Why in your young soul you figure that the "honor of the Corps" demanded that you take that bet and raise the ante by inviting the young gentleman also to risk a bathrobe or a blanket

Always at evens, mind you. No Cadet or Middy would be guilty of asking odds or insulting the fellow in the other branch of the service by offering to give them. It is never a case of "two shirts to one," or "a nice, warm bathrobe against a belt buckle."

Uncle Sam is awfully strict about equipment. Let a single solitary button be missing from a Cadet's pantivs and it means a demerit mark. Let one shirt not be worn long enough, or, not satisfactorily accounted for otherwise, be missing, and the punishment is swift and sure.

Visitors at West Point the week after an Army-Navy game won by the Middies often have wondered at so many Cadets "walking the area."

WALKING THE AREA

When a cadet "walks the area" he must walk a chalkline 70 paces to the minute for one hour, two hours, three hours, as the case may be, and sometimes for an hour or two hours a day for weeks at a stretch, depending upon the seriousness of the infraction of the rules.

Loss of a toothbrush or shirt doesn't bring quite as long a stretch at walking the area as does the loss of bathrobe or blanket.

So you can see when a Cadet or a Middy bets his shirt he does it literally, and he bets until it "bursts."

A good many of the college songs are "bunk." So is much of the college spirit. You must give much, suffer much, to really feel bonds of attachment or love. The silly ass who bibulously declares he would die for dean old Hawyard might expire if the gold spoon were taken out of his mouth, but if anything happened to his Alma Mater who his Sugar Daddy would buy him another one. Wonder how many sons of Fair Harvard would give up their shirts for their Alma Mammy, "walk the area" for a month at a stretch, or lose one of the oh so few and far between week-end leaves?

THEY MEAN IT

When that gray-coated Cadet Corps, rising in the stands at Yankee Stadium, tomorrow afternoon, chants:

"It's our Army
The whole blamed Army,
As back of the Mule we stand.
Days may be rough and stormy,
He's always in command,
Navy Goats are contraband,
We're met by foes on every hand,
So, on Army! Fight Army!
As back of the Mule we stand!

believe us, Mawruss, they mean it. It's a precarious position they're in—back of the mule. What a "kick" one gets when he loses his shirt!

Or one's bathrobe, or nice warm Army blanket. It gets fearfully cold up there on the Plains, where the wind comes sweeping over Hudson and around the shoulder of Storm King.

Legions may declare their willingness to die for dear old Harvard, but when a Cadet says "I'd freeze for dear old Army," he means it.

It is going to be very, very cold for some people down on the Severn or up on the Hudson after tomorrow's game.

English Women Golfers Plan American Invasion

London, Dec. 12 (INS)—A British team of girl golfers will visit the United States early in 1931 despite the obstacles placed in their way by the Royal and Ancient Club at St. Andrews.

Miss Diana Fishwick, British woman golf champion, will sail for the United States in the last week of January next. Accompanied by her mother, she will remain in America until the end of March. Her visit will be a purely private one.

But she will be joined by a number of other prominent English women golfers.

It will be remembered that Florida golf clubs recently issued an invitation to the leading women players of Britain to take part in the open winter tournaments [illegible] obviate the difficulty of hotel expenses—the majority of women players in Britain are not rich—it was intimated that private hospitality had been offered to the players, and that the [illegible] would be for transportation and incidental expenses.

Inquire as to Amateur Status

Thereupon the Ladies' Golf Union, which rules women's golf in Britain, asked the Royal and Ancient Club whether the acceptance of private hospitality would be in conformity with the amateur status of the players.

The Royal and Ancient decreed that such an acceptance would deprive the players of their amateur status. This was the more surprising because British men amateurs, in recent years, when visiting the United States, have availed themselves freely of private hospitality and no exception has been taken.

Undaunted, the women who wish to go have formed their own plans. They have arranged for an inclusive cost of $[illegible] per head for [illegible] which will [illegible] and it is [illegible] that [illegible] will number about 15. Miss Enid Wilson and Miss Mollie Gourlay, who are reckoned the two best players now participating in British tournaments—originally declined the invitation when first extended to us from London by under the new proposed arrangement it is confidently hoped that both will be able to make the trip.

MORENZ IS LEADING SCORER

New York, Dec. 12 (AP)—Through the strenuous struggles of the first quarter of the National Hockey League campaign Howie Morenz, star center man of the champion Canadiens, has stood out individually above all other players of the circuit.

Reported to be "almost the itch" for the past two or three seasons Morenz not only has taken [illegible] at the top of the league's scorers but has been the leading factor in the Canadiens' string of six successive victories.

Morenz brought victory No. 6 as he tallied a goal against the Ottawa Senators skating down alone in the overtime period when his team was a man short. That brilliant feat, one of many like it, gave the Flying Frenchmen a 6 to 5 victory in one of the season's fastest games.

CAPT. McKINLEY, Secretary of War, was one of them, and PAT HURLEY, Navy fullback, was the other. The two Pats will be in Yankee Stadium, New York, tomorrow when the Army Mule and the Navy Goat resume football relations in aid of the unemployed. One will be rooting for the Army, the other rooting into the Army line. The Secretary of War is shown decorating Capt. Ashley C. McKinley with the Distinguished Flying Cross. Sonnenberg's Defeat Another Big Upset

"The defeat of Gus Sonnenberg by Ed George in their world's heavyweight title wrestling bout in Los Angeles was another big upset in sports. Sonnenberg entered the ring as heavy favorite on account of his long run of victories, but was tossed twice by George.

"I don't wish it to appear that I'm offering any alibi for Sonny for he would be the last person in the world to squawk. I believe much, that in justice to the dethroned champion, it should be stated he left a hospital in Albany, N. Y., to come to Boston to wrestle Jack Sherry at the Boston Evening American Christmas Fund show. The pin ... Sonny collapsed at the Copley-Plaza Hotel the day after the match. He was taken to his home in Providence suffering from a severe attack of grippe. It was necessary for him to cancel three matches. He went through with the bout with George rather than disappoint Tom Dyer, the promoter, who had a record advance sale.

"Sonnenberg has exhausted his vitality by constant campaigning. He has engaged in 198 wrestling bouts in less than two years. If he has been necessary for him to travel thousands of miles, and eat in all kinds of places in order to keep his engagements. If Sonny is wise, he will take a long layoff.

Kid Chocolate Favorite to Take Battalino's Title

BETTING IS 6 TO 5 ON CUBAN

New York, Dec. 12 (INS)—Bat Battalino, featherweight champion of the world, weighed in at 124½ pounds at Madison Square Garden this afternoon for his fight tonight with Kid Chocolate in defense of the title. The dusky Cuban, grinning and confident, scaled in at 125.

By DAMON RUNYON

New York, Dec. 12—The nonchalance of the Connecticutters about that fight tonight at Madison Square Garden is positively amazing.

Their attitude is that the pride of the Nutmeg State, Battling Battalino, featherweight champion of the world, is a cinch to lick the Cuban stud o' license, Kid Chocolate.

Damon Runyon

All of which is somewhat disconcerting to the torch streeters, who have been taught that Battling Battalino is a cheese champion, mainly because he didn't fight an New York after winning the featherweight title from Andre Routis.

Imbued with this teaching, the torch streeters gaily opened Chocolate a bright nine to five favorite only to suffer a sudden rush of Battalino money to the head.

Today the Chocolate Kid was still a slight favorite, but at no better than six to five. The confidence of the Connecticutters is largely responsible for the situation.

They believe that the 15-round route laid out as the championship course for the 126-pounders tonight is right up Battalino's alley. He is a sturdy little man who is constantly leaning in trying to get to close quarters and the Connecticutters believe that a body attack will wear Chocolate down, unless the Cuban manages to stop Battalino in the early rounds.

The announcement from the Chocolate headquarters that this will be Chocolate's last fight as a 126-pounder, except one defense of his title against Fidel LaBarba, the Californian, gives rise to the suspicion that Chocolate may be having trouble with the weight.

Poor Will Benefit From the Proceeds of Show

The fight is for the benefit of the New York American's Christmas and relief fund, the great charity which provides a Christmas dinner for the poor of the city every year, and that carries on a splendid campaign against poverty and distress the year around.

The show is under the auspices of the sports department of the American, headed by Eddie Frayne, the able sports editor of the paper.

The advance sale indicates that the featherweights will draw a capacity house. Last year, with Otto Von Porat and Phil Scott as the headliners, and with Jack Dempsey as referee the gate receipts were around $90,000. There is no chance of the fight tonight ending like that celebrated event under the no-foul rule of the New York Boxing Commission.

Behind the main event are two 10-rounders and what the boys call a giser. In the first 10, Matchmaker Tom McArdle, of the Hollenden, has paired Signor Roberto Roberti, the Tall Tower of Tuscany and Marty Fox, the heavyweight pride of the Ghetto.

It will be Roberti's first appearance in New York after a long absence. In the semi-windup, the young Italian ex-amateur, Ralph Fiorello, regarded as the most promising newcomer in the heavyweight ranks of the big town, will tangle with Mateo Osa, a big Spanish protege of Senor Luis Guitarez, manager of Kid Chocolate. Osa comes from the Basque country, which gave us Senor Paolino Uzcudun, and he has something of the Paolino style. This ought to be a good fight, as both Osa and Fiorello are mixers. In the opening six, Ralph Delaney, a New Jersey boy who is a stablemate of Battalino, will make his appearance.

Chief Bender to Go South With Giants

Manager John McGraw thinks Bender can show him his faults.

New Crimson Leader

football, baseball, track, tennis and hockey. He also spent a year at Thatcher School in California.

His welcome at Cambridge was a huge one for Wood had shown signs in prep school of becoming a Harvard immortal. And even though he's only in junior year at Cambridge he's just about done what has been expected of him.

He captained the freshman football team in 1928, the last freshman team that Edwin Casey coached before being made a member of the varsity coaching roster. That year Barry led the Harvard yearlings to many brilliant victories.

And in the final game of the year, against the Bulldog Pups Barry and his mates probably started three years of disaster to Harvard football teams by stopping Albie Booth, then quarter on the Eli frosh, dead in his tracks. Albie hasn't been the same since.

In freshman year Wood won letters in hockey and baseball too.

Then came his try for the varsity football team and Wood made good from the start. He quarterbacked the Crimson in every game and had two men on the days when he shot the pass to Vic Harding in the gathering gloom of the Stadium late one afternoon and kicked the point to tie Army and again when he thrilled at Ann Arbor with his passing against Michigan.

Wood made the varsity hockey and baseball teams in his sophomore year. He played center on the hockey team which kept Yale from an intercollegiate championship by tieing the third and deciding game and cavorted at first base on the ball team and hit well enough to bat in the clean-up position.

This year, his junior year, Wood has won his football letter again. He was the Harvard quarterback all season. Barry wasn't as brilliant during the closed campaign But he came through against Yale. And that is all that matters at Harvard.

Harvard opened its hockey season last night against Tech, winning 7-2. Wood caged three goals playing center again, and was the individual star of the contest.

He is also a tennis star. He ranks No. 1 in N. E. circles and has been considered for the Davis Cup team.

Wood has not only won athletic fame but is an "A" man in his studies and popular with his classmates. He was president of his freshman class and the best student-athlete at Harvard in his second year.

Last week he was accepted by the Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic society, and presented his key by President Lowell of Harvard.

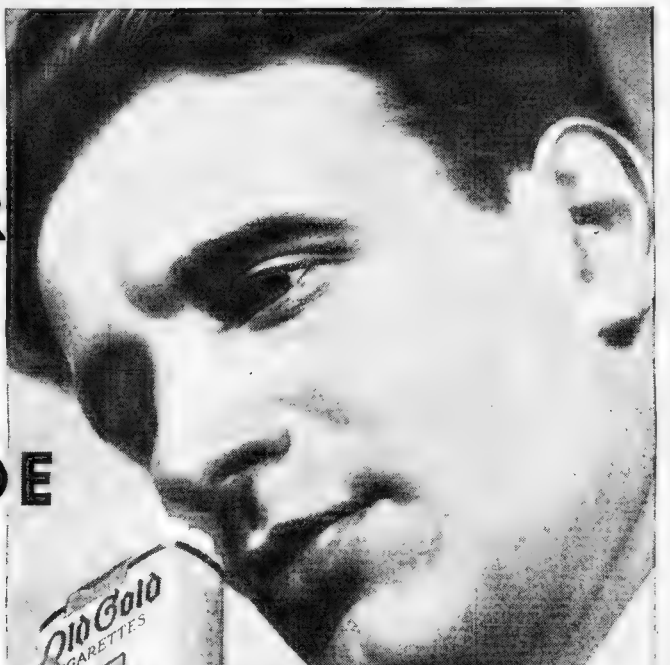
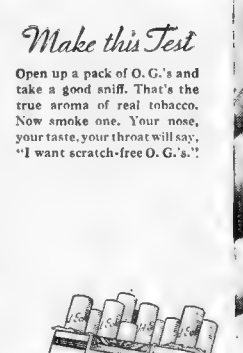
LET YOUR NOSE DECIDE



Make this Test

Open up a pack of O. G.'s and take a good sniff. That's the true aroma of real tobacco. Now smoke one. Your nose, your taste, your throat will say, "I want scratch-free O. G.'s."



You don't need to be a tobacco expert to tell in an instant why OLD GOLDS are so kind to your throat.

Open a package of OLD GOLDS and take a good sniff. That's the true aroma of real tobacco.

For OLD GOLDS are just fine tobacco at its best. No foreign aromas that burn into scratchy throat-biting fumes. No added pungent flavoring to cover coarse stinging tobaccos. Nature itself left the rough spots out of O. G.'s.

Smell the others. Smell OLD GOLDS. Taste the others. Taste OLD GOLDS. Your two best senses . . . and your common sense . . . will say, "We want OLD GOLD."

TIGERS FACE EAGLES AT GARDEN

The Boston Tigers will reach the quarter mark in the present Canadian-American League race tomorrow night when they meet the New Haven Eagles at the Boston Garden in the fourth meeting between these rivals.

With the Eagles resting in third place and the Tigers now playing real hockey after a poor start the two teams should furnish plenty of battle tonight. The last fought and lost affair. The Tigers took a 7 to 1 edge over the Eagles in the three games played between the teams so far. Boston has also defeated the New Haven team on its home wintry, 2 to 1 and 3 to 1. New Haven while losing at the Garden 7 to 1.

In their two appearances the Tigers have played two clean cut games against the same team. The second game was not so clean cut, however, as Boston defeated Jack Haven. Manager Eddie Powers now has his team clicking on its top form.

CHAPTER 19

[illegible] Dick sent Sid [illegible] Walters—one is a little chorus girl named Selbrok."

Never heard of her. Dick replied. Sid sneered with relief. Let's be sure that the quick witted Bart Oliver was going to give phoney names just to appease Dick.

"The other is a young widow, named Beckett—she doesn't live here, was just visiting. She got that 'N' tattooed on her before she was married. Both of them had heard about the other's affairs with Nissinger—I can name him since you know that much—and let's forget all about it."

"Sure," Sid said with relief.

"It's funny—it's a hot joke all right, too bad you can't print it without their names, Sid."

"Nobody would believe it."

"And if you said in your gossip column stors that the initial was 'N,' it would create a big bit of guessing."

"As I've said before, Dick, you're a swell mechanic, but what you know about libel laws isn't too good."

Dick left right after the [illegible] went down town to the little famous hotel where he made his home. After he had gone Bart and Mert had a heart to heart talk.

The young fellow's fallen for one of me who wears Nissinger's initial."

Sorry Bart can't talk about that but I'll hand it to you for quick wit getting my distress signal. By the way, who were those girls?"

Real Names

"Oh, a little local girl named Simmons, you wouldn't know her. The other one you know mighty well—the one who bumped Thurber and almost got a pension for it."

Viola Forsythe, eh?"

"It's a great life, Sid—especially if you get to see some of the secret wheels going round."

Sid agreed.

This would not be a happy week for Ethel Simmons. Mert Nissinger was to marry Nina Paxton on Wednesday evening. Of course Ethel knew all about it but known even before the newspapers got the announcement. Mert had told her. And Mert had vowed that his marriage to Nina would make no difference. Yet Ethel was decidedly blue. What if Mert should decide not to see her any more? What if Nina should keep such a tight clutch on her money that he would have to walk the straight and narrow to get the handling of it?

Monday night Ethel was supposed to be with Mabel Shelton again. In reality she was with Nissinger at his cottage.

"I'll be back in a couple of weeks, Babe," he assured her.

"But, Mert, how about staying out late?" Ethel asked.

"Business trips—get the idea?"

"Does she know about this cottage?"

Yes, but I told her I had sold it because she thought it was too small and cheap. Friend of mine Doc Slavin, is supposed to have bought it. I put him up to it and we closed the deal one night when we were playing bridge at his house. Nina was there and approved."

"And you'll send me notes in care of Mabel, as we planned?"

"Right."

"But Mert, how am I going to get in touch with you? Don't you think I'll be lonely?

Use the Phone

"Telephone the office; say you are speaking for Mr. Schlessinger—there isn't any Mr. Schlessinger; get the idea? When my secretary tells me I'll know it is you and I'll talk as though it was a business deal if any one is in the office, so you'll understand—don't you worry—we'll get away with it."

"Mert—you said that next year we might go to Europe."

"Could you get away?"

"I thought you might stake me and I'd tell mother I won a scholarship at the school of design that gives me three months' study in Paris with all expenses. Mother can't get out, you know, and she'll never be wise."

"That's mighty clever, I'll stake you, all right, and I'll have important business in Paris those three months—then Nina's down South with her people—get the idea?"

"I'm ahead of you on it—Oh, Mert, you're awfully good and I'm crazy about you—gee, I hate to think you're going to be married."

"Forget it—doesn't mean a thing to us. And I'll bring you a nice present when I come back."

"What?"

"A love ring."

"What's that?"

"A big ruby—real one."

Wonderful, Mert. I'm crazy and always want it. I can see money that's an investment cheap you know one of those can't-lam.

Sometime they make rumors that way but they one will be just like you—the real goods."

They laughed gleefully. Then Mert seized her in his arms.

Dick Walters assured Sergeant Sid that there was no danger that the gun Fred Mayo used in the Thurber case [illegible] [illegible] The prosecution had mysteriously Mayo brought it with [illegible] hope the prosecution Mayo's lawyer was away at the time. WINNIE

Dear Winnie: Of course it is rather young to make a life's choice of a life mate, but why be so fearful if you get along well and love each other? And when some little difference does arise, don't just throw up the whole affair with a pessimistic fear. Try to adapt yourself to your friend, and realize that all life is a matter of give and take. No matter who you meet or loved you'd have differences of opinion and temperaments to overcome. I have always said that you can get along with almost any normal person if you really want to badly enough.

Should we treat them "coolly" or what?

TWO BROWN EYES.

Dear Two Brown Eyes—When a man's interest begins to wane, there is little to do but sit on the fence and watch it settle on. Be polite and friendly if you like, because too obvious a snub would give them the impression you were mad, and "madness" would mean that you care enough about them to notice what they do. Many fellows, alas, have the feeling that they can rush a girl, make violent love to her and when she has succumbed and this satisfied his feeling of power they go on to other conquests. It proves nothing disparaging to the girl. The boys are born with atrocious complexes very clever at concealing, and the constant reassurance of many conquests to convince them that they really are good

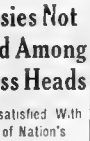
Jealousies Not Wanted Among Business Heads

Public Dissatisfied With Inaction of Nation's Leaders

By B. C. FORBES

Akron, O., Dec. 12—Are personal jealousies and rivalries among financial magnates hindering this country?

The answer would seem to be Yes.



B. C. Forbes

A famous Parisian statesman warned the kaiser before the World War began that if once many things had been shattered many things might be swept away. Many were.

The new perspective that the heads of our Eastern railway systems have failed to agree on combination plans notwithstanding that they have been brokering for half a dozen years and that the administration at Washington has lately urged immediate harmonization. I understand that one man is blocking the whole movement by demanding that his system be made very much larger than any other.

The other railway heads contend that to agree to this would not be in accordance with the spirit of the transportation act, which stipulates the creation of well-balanced systems of as equal strength as feasible. Also, it is not believed the Interstate Commerce Commission would sanction any lop-sided merger. If our Eastern railway magnates can't agree over $2,500 millions and find a way out of their difficulties, if they can't manage to get little railroads to keep themselves clear of receiverships, they will surely get no help from Washington or the public.

Talking about personal ambitions, Wall Street for months has been rife with stories that instead of wholehearted cooperation among the country's most powerful banking institutions, there has been much wrangling at group meetings. Those banking specialists accused of near-sightedness and in the unquestionably powerful group are not of having an easy time, the warning given the Kaiser is commended.

Here in Akron the rubber magnates, in common with other industrialists, are finding that when a new era in business sets in, many millions of dollars are wiped out by personal jealousies more than by any one big mistake or mismanagement.

This extract from an editorial in the Akron Beacon Journal will give you an idea of how the enterprising rubber capital of this world feel.

"In spite of decreased income, passed dividends and wage cuts, no stockholder has yet attacked the management of any of the huge Akron companies because of the misuse of its stockholders' money. That it has just been done elsewhere is vindication of the fact that it might be done in Akron if those men at the helm of the city's greatest industries continue to ignore ordinary rules of common sense in business and do nothing to give their products away merely that they may feed fat an ancient grudge.

"Warriors in the heat of battle are often likely to forget from whom is derived the sinews of war that enable them to fight.

"When prices are slashed so viciously that a company consistently sells its goods lower and lower below the actual cost of manufacture it is small wonder that its stockholders begin to inquire. If these men cannot or will not operate our companies on business principles, is it not possible to find someone else who will?"

That is plain speaking, isn't it? Unless American finance and industry prove able to solve, or at least greatly mitigate the employment and other serious economic problems afflicting this country, the public may be apt be inclined in plain speaking, not to say action.

There are at this critical time more important considerations at stake than petty personal jealousies and vainglorious ambitions.

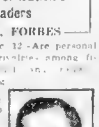
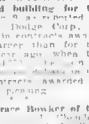
NEW ENGLAND BUILDING IS INCREASED

By FRANK H. McLOON

New England building for the week ended Dec. 9 as reported today by F. W. Dodge Corp., totaled $14,450,900 in contracts awarded. This is larger than for the like week a year ago when the total was $14,247,000. The total volume of contracts awarded is viewed as most pleasing.



President Horace Bowker of the Massachusetts Chamber of Commerce tells me that instead of calling for redemption of Liberty bonds previously announced, he directors have decided to call for redemption on the 15th of March $50,000,000 of the 4½ per cent. second Liberty bonds. Redemption price is 102½, and interest will reduce the bonds outstanding to about $750,000,000 as compared with $800,000,000 as now. Last June $50,000,000 of the company's 7 per cent. preferred stock was retired, leaving $10,000,000 outstanding. The company's net income for the year ended June 30 last was $3,000,000.



Roger Babson

The company maintains numerous plants and operates in the territory of which it is one of the principal public utility companies. It was formerly carried on in big-scale fashion. That "Aggie" is able to reduce its bonded debt in the face of rising costs is indeed praise. Notes for the manage-ment.

CLOSING HEAVY IN WALL ST. DEALINGS

New York, Dec. 12—Sporadic selling became general in the last hour of trading in today's stock market, and numerous net losses of 1 to 3 points were recorded. The closing was heavy.

The list developed considerable buoyancy in the early hours of trading, as shorts hurried to cover, and a technical rally seemed to be in the making.

SALES 2,100,000.

The market's calm in the face of the closing of an eastern bank, despite its prominence in Wall street, prompted to have encouraged the bear faction. Trading was light, sales aggregating 2,100,000 shares.

The oil shares developed pronounced heaviness, however, and soon imparted this tendency to other quarters of the list.

Standard of California sold off nearly 3 points to a new low, each among 15 other petroleum issues reaching new minimum levels with moderate or slight declines, were Standard of New York and Texas Corp. Standard of N. J. held a point above its low.

BETHLEHEM AT LOW.

Bethlehem Steel was a heavy feature, declining 2½ to a new bottom at 31½. Motion pictures also were under pressure. Paramount lost 2 and Loews 3.

American Telephone, after selling up 2 points, reacted just before the close and finished off 2 points net. New York Central lost nearly 3. Tobacco issues, however, closed steady, as did American Can. Woolworth was up a fraction.

CALL MONEY.

Call money renewed at 2 per cent, then rose to 2½, the first time it has gone above 2 per cent since September 18.

Continued heaviness in oil and gasoline prices still seemed to be hanging over the petroleum issues, although the day brought forth nothing new of consequence in the petroleum situation.

Crude oil and gasoline prices are at unprofitable levels and fourth quarter earnings estimates are rather gloomy. Most of the Standard companies report their earnings once a year.

Several substantial orders for railway equipment were reported, and the efforts of the steel industry to stabilize prices seem to be meeting with better success than some similar endeavors. Cotton had first thought the lowest prices in 15 years. Furthermore, silver bullion had another drop, recording a new historical low at 32½ cents an ounce, or about 28 per cent under the price as of the first of the year. The effect of the heaviness of this metal are primarily in trade with the Far East, where the metal is still used as a monetary basis.

American Machine & Metals Co., formerly Manhattan Electrical Supply Co., has sent a letter to its stockholders requesting them to deposit stock under a five-year voting trust agreement to assure continuance of the present management.

Accompanying the letter to stockholders was a letter from four New York stock exchange houses supporting the plan. They are: Anderson & Fox, Post & Flagg, Harris & Vose and Wm. Schall & Co.

Advice to Churches

Dr. Smith's Suggestions

A peculiar admixture of advice, which the ordinary layman may find difficult to reconcile with consistency, was given to the Protestant churches of this country by Dr. Fred B. Smith, moderator of the National Council of Congregational Churches, in his Boston address to the Wesleyan Association.

Dr. Smith said the churches must not pander to the ignorant, belong to organized labor, be controlled by any clique or become the plaything of a few rich people.

THAT sounds all right. Churches should not be subservient to special interests. Nor should they forget that the founder of the Christian church took shelter among and confided in those who had the reputation of ignorance but who became, in fact, the ablest crusaders the world has ever known.

He says the world has changed overnight its convictions of 500 years, and the churchmen seem to be the last to find it out. Their prestige will not be regained in this new order of things, he says, through gorgeous physical equipment, soliciting millions of endowment money or through highly-compensated preachers. Nor must they preach the simple gospel to please a few individuals in the church, he adds.

Well, the world may have changed; but if it has gotten away from the simple and ancient commandment to do unto your neighbor as you would have him do unto you, it is the world and not the commandment that has been the loser. When you read of the acts of charity and mercy which, as a single example, so many hundreds of good people are performing through the Helping Hand and Christmas Basket Fund of this one newspaper, you begin to revive your lost confidence in the world of today.

Dr. Smith concludes by saying that the churches are engaged in the severest fight of their life now for prohibition "in the struggle against the organized liquor traffic," and that they must also "face squarely the problem of war."

If there is an organized liquor traffic today, as there is, it is the product of prohibition. It is a secret traffic, which recognizes no authority except the sawed-off shotgun, which has no morality and which relies upon the stupidity of some churchmen in insisting upon prohibition to continue its own nefarious existence.

Furthermore, the fine old Congregational units of New England derived their existence and greatest strength out of the valor and independence of the American patriots who fought for independence and against entangling alliances. The Congregational church was a sturdy democratic institution whose leaders and members were patriotically devoted to America and had an abhorrent distate for any political alliances with foreign Nations which would disturb or impair the sovereignty of their country, such as the League of Nations and the League Court.

Our Women Judges

We May Expect Human Kindliness From Them

Governor Allen appoints two women judges, the first in New England, and wins for himself praise and criticism.

Why there should be either is difficult to understand.

Woman's suffrage, giving women equal rights in office-holding and responsibility, is established in law and custom and usage. It is neither in swaddling clothes, to be handled tenderly and gingerly, nor some new freak, like Bosco, to be put in a cage and marvelled at by the curious.

Justice is familiarly sculptured in the form of a woman. She is blindfolded. She is supposed not to be blind, but to be impartial.

Mrs. Schofield and Mrs. Shulman are politically trained and politically minded. Both are mothers.

The only cause for concern, or comment, as we see it, is whether these two ladies on the bench will permit early political partisanship actually to blindfold them, or whether, in their dispensation of justice, they will realize that the unfortunates who appear before them are as their own children with all the strengths and inherent weaknesses which human nature bestows.

They have a chance to show some of our crusty, dyspeptic male judges some of the elements of human kindliness.

Andree the Ambitious

He Found Life in Death

In the diary of Andree, the polar explorer who met death in the Arctic 33 years ago, you find this thought provoking paragraph:

"Shall we be thought mad or will our example be followed? I cannot deny that all of us are dominated by a feeling of pride. We think we can well face death, having done what we have done. Isn't it all, perhaps, the expression of an extremely strong sense of individuality which cannot bear the thought of living and dying like a man in the ranks, forgotten by coming generations? Is this ambition?"

If it was ambition—that "last infirmity of noble minds"—the world would profit from more of it. For this desire to survive in achievement, to win a vicarious immortality through action, is the root of all progress. Without it, we should still be living in caves—or, perhaps, would still be protoplasmic cells in the abysmal slime.

Ambition is life; lack of it, death. The jellyfish is not ambitious. That is why he is a jellyfish.

A VERY SPECIAL CUSTOMER

The play opens in your Uncle Sam's one-man barber shop in Washington.

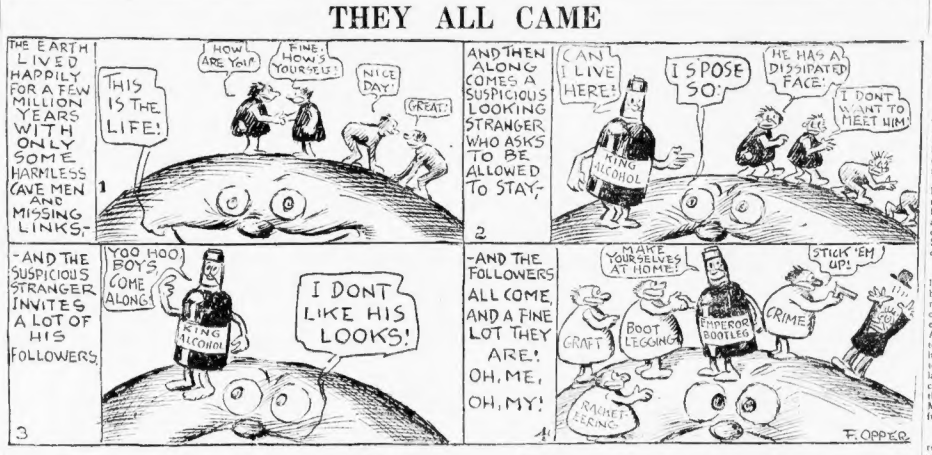
The favorite customer is in the chair, getting some of that expensive hair tonic.

He still has a shampoo, face massage, singe, manicure and shoe shine coming. The gentlemen waiting their turn will continue to wait.

Who are they, anyhow?

Look them over, and ask yourself, how can THEY expect attention when old special customer, Prohibition, is around?

THEY ALL CAME



Our old earth might sing, as many of its children have sung: "Once I was happy, but now I'm forlorn."

Really, without ANY desire to be pessimistic, we must say that things, in some ways, seem to go from worse to worse.

You see, in the upper left hand corner, life as it was in the old days; no electric lights, flying machines, caviar, champagne, or steam-heated flats. But what of it?

The best thing in the world is peace of mind. They didn't kidnap you, in those days, or shoot you with sawed-off shotguns, or poison you with bootleg alcohol, or "needled" beer.

Well might the world exclaim: "Woe is me, Alhama," when King Alcohol appeared. And the worst that followed was when he made way for his successor, Emperor Bootleg. Look what he brought with him!

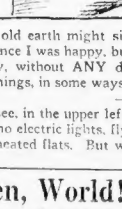
Listen, World!—A Photo

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Love Is Like That

THERE'S A photograph on my desk.

Nothing unusual about it. You might not even notice it. Just a picture of a 17-year-old youngster in a white sweater.



Elsie Robinson

Thin young shoulders, tumbled hair—freckled nose and shy, merry eyes and a wide, gentle mouth, just firming into manhood. Only a boy—still such a little boy—surprising his mother with a picture of his new sweater. I wonder if his neck was clean? I'm certain it wasn't!

Dear little boy—smiling across the years, dreams in your eyes. I wonder if, somewhere, they all came true.

Just a picture. Probably you'd never notice it. Or think it very important if you did. Maybe it isn't very important. And yet—

The world is full of things, for you and me. The years go on, filling it fuller. I'm glad for life. It's a great experience. I made up my mind I'd go on and take all there was to take. I've traveled—been places and done things. I've gambled—dared to live, dared to laugh, dared to love. And yet, I've gotten a lot out of it.

Beauty—I've seen more than my share of it. Wonder and delight—and the mysterious spirit of things. I've seen that, too. I'd seen more if I had been worthier. Success—they say I've had that. Well—perhaps. Maybe the having was worth while, maybe it wasn't. But at least I had my chance to find out. Power—one gets that, too. And wisdom—it's always there to lean on. Pretty much all that life can give I've had. All the tonis that a human can use to find his way around. Yet it's strange, none of them meant to me what that little picture means. None of them helped me, like that.

Just the memory of a boy's young eyes and sensitive mouth—and dear, half baby stick-out ears. And the beautiful innocence of him and the heart breaking courage—sure he'd be able to face anything life had to offer! So confident he'd find love and fair play.

Strange, how one memory like that will stand by through the thick of everything.

You know, don't you? There's a memory like that for you, too.

No matter how much else there has been—no matter what else has happened to you—there was just one thing in life that made everything else worth while. One hand you clutched through all the years—one thought that steadied you when you were desperate—cleaned and comforted you when you were bad or sad—made you want to do your best—spurred you on!

Out of many things in the world, just one thing that means more than anything else, to each of us—

Love is like that.

Lessons of the Stars

By ARCHIBALD HENDERSON, PH. D.

FOR CENTURIES, astronomers and laymen have been looking upwards at night and wondering at the mighty stellar display of the heavens. Much astronomical information in early days was untrustworthy and legendary, being based upon superstition and unreliable tradition.

Today, we enjoy an inestimable advantage over the ancients, in possessing elaborate, accurate and huge instruments for making our studies. The deepest of all puzzles is how all these bright and beautiful objects came into existence, and the course of evolution through which they have passed in reaching their present state.

Stars may be classified into various types, according to certain standards by which they may be compared with one another. There are classifications according to stellar magnitudes—suns as giant stars and dwarf stars. Then, again, stars may be classified according to color—blue, red, yellow, white—for example.

Also, stars may be classified according to the speeds at which they are moving through space. And, lastly, stars may be classified according to the constituents of which they are made up.

The average speed for A stars, of which Sirius Vega is an example, is 19.5 kilometers per second. In the case of the very speedy stars, the red stars, the rate ranges as high as 47.1 kilometers per second for these stars, which are supposed to be comparatively cold.

There is a famous classification of stars, known as the Draper Classification, which has long been standard among astronomers.

According to this scheme classes of stars are denoted by letters of the alphabet, in the curious order O, B, A, F, G, K, M, R, J and S. It is interesting to note that nine-tenths of the stars are included within the six classes, B to H.

In class A, lines of hydrogen show up prominently in the spectra. Stars like Vega and Castor belong to this class.

In class F, the lines of ionized calcium, which were weak in stars of class A, become more prominent. Some of the stars in this class have a spectrum closely resembling that of the sun. Typical F stars are Procyon and Canopus, which are white stars.

The sun belongs to class G. There are an enormous number of metallic lines in the spectra of these stars; and hydrogen and ionized calcium remain prominent.

Class K consists of orange stars, of which Arcturus and Aldebaran are conspicuous examples. The lines of ionized metals become weaker, of neutral metals, stronger.

Strong bands of titanium oxide appear in stars of M class; and these red stars number among them Antares and Betelgeuse.

In class O the most important lines are bright lines of hydrogen, of ionized helium, carbon, oxygen and nitrogen; there are, in addition, several bright lines of unknown origin. The classes R and S are red stars and comparatively rare in the heavens.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 12—Thoughts while strolling: Who remembers when telephone calls were free in hotels? Hard-as-nails ladies affecting a dreamy uncertainty. Ewing Galloway, the photographer, still clings to his coon-skin cap. Somehow I lose all interest in actresses who endorse face lotions.

Bob Davis, a Carson City, Nevada, boy, who made good in the city. Those boys in roadsters with police dogs who call papa "The Governor." You can't see the grandeur of Pierre's from the outside. Anna May Wong's eyes have the brightness of rain-washed berries.

Fifth avenue used to be "the" address, but upper East Side cross streets are now swankier. Something sad, dry and musty about a linen store. And clerks seem characters out of Dickens. Funny how an invalid often dominates an entire household of healthy people. Sam Bernard, Jr.

The Sixth avenue watch repairer who sits at his bench wearing a red fez. Does anyone else miss the black cat in the flower shop window near the Hippodrome? Either I have run into a flock of gnats or there are spots before my eyes. What became of ring-worms?

A shop dealing in nursery wallpaper. Otto Kahn always looks as successful as the Blue Train. Chief Long Lance, the Indian writer, who wears embroidered evening shirts. Joe Schanz, the tailor. Those fugitive lines of poetry that gallop through one's head. Alice, Ziegfeld's famous telephone girl.

Our lives are spent among friends who cannot tell the color of our eyes. A sportily dressed man eating an apple along the street. Charles Francis Coe and Gene Tenney have become pals. Those all night tap dancing schools in the old brownstone fronts.

The former Edith Gould is no longer plump. Believe I'll spend my next vacation in the Ozarks. And fatten up on salt pork, lye hominy and pot likker. Go bare-back, pick chiggers and chase razor-backs. Something the matter today. The old-fashioned simples, I suspect!

Speaking of Joe Schanz. He has long been one of the rulers to bloods of the town. One evening recently in a London theater he occupied a box. In the audience he exchanged greetings with many American friends who were customers. At the intermission they held a conference and drifted back to their seats with their coat collars yanked up in back and their clothes otherwise out of kilter. They then pointed to their misfits and at Mr. Schanz, who deported blushing furiously.

My current enthusiasm for correctly fitting clothes are those featured by Clifton Webb, the actor, who knows how to wear them.

And for the style conscious there are those white evening vests, fitting like a banana skin, and worn by Aubrey Eads. There are no gaps or wrinkles between the buttons and the whole effect has the fixedness of something in steel. The secret is the frontal is a "dummy"—the weskit being fastened up in the back.

America has the best dressed men of any country I ever visited but has never learned the precise angle for a silk hat. The silk-hatted New Yorker always looks as though he will begin walking sideways and burst out singing "While strolling through the park" almost any minute. The British can make the high hat as natural as the Apache does his long-visored cap.

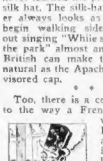
Too, there is a certain jauntiness to the way a French boulevardier wears a muffler. It seems to give a quick, careless fling, like a fellow flipping away a cigarette end, but the result is always dashing. Ben Ali Haggin, the painter, is the only American I ever saw who possessed this gift.



After a lifetime of effort, my sartorial muscles are not likely to crash into frescoes for posterity. Yet I had moments. There was the time I came home from college with each sleeve decorated with a row of buttons up to the elbow and people stabbed at a 45-degree angle. Hannibal, my father's venerable colored porter, gazed at the outfit and ventured:

"Cap'n, you sho' is powerfully buttoned!"
